The Good Earth Crusade (and What You Can Do About It)

Editor's Note: America's newest cause, Ecology, deals with the relation between man and his environment and between all life and its environment; consequently with conservation. Here is the first of a series of weekly articles on the subject by a lifelong nature student and newspaper man whose own strong feelings on these vital matters will be readily apparent. Others will appear in Sunday starting June 21.

BY JOE WING
For the Associated Press

Will the current craze for ecology be just another passing fad?

After the college kids, the politicians and the well-meaning housewives have had their fun marching and shouting and picking up tin cans, will they turn to other newer and more exciting causes?

Not if they value their lives they won't. Nor will they be able to do so easily because, though the Vietnam war for instance is going to phase out sooner or later, the pollution crisis is one that will be with us always. We'll be lucky if there is any real progress this decade.

Behind the drive against air and water pollution, against noise, garbage and sewage, against thoughtless destruction of wildlife and its habitat, against desecration of beauty spots and the despoiling of land and sea, there is an issue even more fundamental than the quality of life, about which we hear so much.

Toward Destruction

The issue is whether man is headed, like the dinosaur before him, towards his own destruction. The dinosaurs weren't smart enough to adjust to changes in their ecology. Although the brains in our little bodies are bigger than those of the dinosaurs, are we that much smarter?

One hopeful sign for the future is a research report from General Electric that Americans will be less concerned in coming years with material things and more interested in life's quality.

Fortunately for its survival, the ecology craze has things going for it that are lacking even in such causes as abolition of the bomb.

First, it's a cause with demonstrated appeal not just for youth or the elderly or the middle aged but for everybody.

Second, the problems of conservation and the allied pursuit of nature study are so fascinating that, once recognized, they are hard to sweep away into a dark corner of the mind.

Third, these problems are ones that nearly every individual can help solve in some small measure by his own individual, practical effort.

He probably cannot take a gobbie up ever more valuable single tangible step towards banning the bomb, but most, nate streams and lakes, figuring definitely he can make some that their own small contribution towards cutting down on water pollution, smog, difference, or litter, and even toward such larger matters as better sewage disposal, preservation of wild lands, and protection of birds and other living things. He can't naure lover, or lover of human-pass the whole buck on these ity, can do his part. As effective matters to politicians and to as anything, perhaps, is an industry. Not only must he do intelligient, word-of-mouth cam-his part individually, but unless pain politicians and industries know he wants action and means business there will be none.

In spite of all the talk about conservation, hosts of Americans who consider themselves in sympathy with the general idea go right ahead wiping out insects both "good," and "bad," they persist in "cleaning up" brushy or swampy or weedy areas that harbor much of our dwindling wildlife, or in shooting "varmints." They burn trash, toss beer cans by the roadside, flaunt great neon signs that desecrate the landscape and

Just consider that in spite of all the fine talk by Smokey Bear, forest fires touched off by careless people rage each year through millions of acres. Obviously more talk is needed.

The conservation war is not one therefore that will be won overnight. Even its battles will be long drawn out. Only if the growing army of amateur environmentalists has staying power will any substantial victory be achieved. But it will be too bad for the vanquished, or their children's children, if the war is lost.

Obviously a tremendous education job is needed. This where the ordinary, garden variety and other living things. Persistent Janitress Earns Right to Don Cap, Gown

BY RACHEL EBERLE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 40-year-old mother has donned cap and gown as a member of the class of 1970 at California State College at Los Angeles, where for 12 years she has been a fulltime janitress and part-time student.

Lena Sparks says she seeks education as "the key to achievement—it opens doors; you don't get anything for nothing."

She says there were times when she got tired of scrubbing bathrooms but she never thought of giving up.

"There was always the question, though," she adds, "of whether I would retire before I graduated or graduate before I retired."

Mrs. Sparks, a Negro who lives in suburban Compton with her warehouseman husband, is helping her son, Mark, 19, through a pre-law course at the University of New Mexico.

She participated in graduation ceremonies Friday night with 4,000 other students even though she was eight units short of the requirement for her bachelor of arts degree in American studies.

She'll be back in class and on the business end of a mop during summer session, getting those eight units.

She plans to enroll in the fall at the University of Southern California to study library science, in hopes of becoming a librarian.

"I've always had my nose in books. Even as a child my mother would be fussing at me because I was reading instead of doing work I was supposed to be doing," she said.

Mrs. Sparks, a trim 125-pounder, reported for years at 7 a.m. for her $586-a-month job. She took classes during her lunch period or worked extra hours to make up for classroom time.

Grandma Does What Someone Has Got to Do

ARGYLE (AP)—It's a mighty poor living," said Mrs. Vella Armstrong, "but somebody's got to put 'em away."

The 63-year-old grandmother was referring to her job as a gravedigger. Wielding pick and shovel, she has been digging graves since 1960.

Getting $65 per grave, she boasts: "I can shovel with anybody."

"The main thing in digging is to keep it square," she explained measuring a plot 33 inches wide and eight feet long. Depth may vary, with 5½ feet being about average. After the burial, tamping down the dirt is important—not to leave a mound or depression.

"Some make an awful job, just throw the dirt in and the grave is that high," she said.

With a touch of pride she said, "We've had compliments from near and far."

Lawrence Community Fetes Visitors

The Lawrence University community and Fox Valley alumni feted commerce-weekend visitors at a series of receptions, dinners and a luncheon.

President and Mrs. Thomas S. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E.

Graham Waring and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rosenberg welcomed senior alumni and members of the class of 1920 at a Friday evening reception at the Smith home before a buffet dinner at the Conway Hotel.

Hosts at the dinner were members of the Lawrence Alumni Association board of directors. They included association president Mrs. Edward Spoerl, Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Robert Buchanan, Earl Miller, Elmer Otto and Ralph Tippet, all of Appleton. Mrs. Clifford Boettcher, Ashville, N.C.; Henry Allen, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Frederick Dicke, Two Rivers, and Mrs. F. E. Roberts, Milwaukee.

Continental breakfasts for university and conservatory alumni were held Saturday morning at the Samuel Appleton Carnegie Library and the Music Drama Center. On display in the library was an exhibit of watercolors by Miss Emily Groom, former art department chairman of Milwaukee - Downer College.

Returning Lawrence faculty and administrators were presented with silver trays, inscribed with appreciation and affection from the Lawrence Alumni Association at the Saturday noon all-university luncheon in Colman Hall. Trays went to Mrs. Anne B. Lav, professor of biology, Marshall B. Hulbert, vice president of Lawrence and Downer Colleges, and LaVahn Maesch, dean of the Conservatory of Music.

Speakers at the luncheon were President Smith, Mrs. Spoerl, Peter Frutzel, assistant professor of English, and William Baer, president of the

The Saturday morning continental breakfast for returning alumni was held against a display of miniature art and water colors by Miss Emily Groom, former chairman of the Milwaukee - Downer College art department, and Carl Rifer, professor of art at Lawrence. Examining the miniatures are Mrs. Arthur Moors, Wau-tosa, Miss Grace Gates, Mauston, and Mrs. Erwin Esche, Manawa. Below, returning dean of the Conservatory of Music and Mrs. LaVahn Maesch greet Miss Nancy Bodenstern, Brighton, Mass., at the Friday evening reception held in honor of Maesch and Marshall B. Hulbert at Riverview Country Club.

Maesch Prize Established

The establishment of the LaVahn Maesch Prize in Organ Playing was announced by President Thomas S. Smith at a Friday evening dinner honoring retiring dean of the Conservatory of Music, LaVahn Maesch, and retiring vice president of Lawrence and Downer Colleges, Marshall B. Hulbert.

The prize was established by former organ students of Maesch and members of Appleton's First Congregational United Church of Christ, where Maesch has served as choir director and organist.

After the event sponsored by the alumni of the Conservatory of Music were more than 270 former Maesch and Hulbert students — professional music makers, the late singers, instrumentalists, serious composers, music critics, music therapists, church musicians, owners of music stores, publishers of music books and dozens of music teachers public and private, some of whom represent colleges and universities throughout the country.

Toastmaster for the evening festivities was Richard Westenburg, member of the class of 1954, currently organist-choirmaster of the Central Presbyterian Church of New York. Tributes to Maesch and Hulbert were presented by Miss Marian Gerlach, class of 1940 and chairman of the music department at Glenbrook High School, and Russell Wichmann, class of 1934 this year's recipient of the Lawrence Alumni Distinguished Service Award.

The Lawrence Singers directed by Karl Erickson, assistant professor of music, presented a program of musical salutations. John McN. Rosebush, class of 1942 gave the invocation.

To the refrain of "Those Were the Days" the lives of Lawrence University's Hulbert and Maesch were told by Miss Marjorie Schumann, class of 1944, former publicity director at Lawrence.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

TEAM CAPTAIN

To be a winning player, you have to know how to bid and play "marginal games." A marginal game is a game in which if your opponents bid and make it, they are lucky, but if you and your partner bid and make it, you are courageous.

Aces Bob Hamman and Mike Lawrence have a long history of bidding and making marginal games. Here is an illustration of Lawrence in action in a recent national championship.

Lawrence won the spade opening in his hand with the jack and had no sure way of knowing whether spades were 4-4 or 5-3 in the E-W hands. If spades were in fact 5-3, it would be necessary to avoid letting the opponents in at all.

REDUCING PLAN

This unique formula—now in easy-to-use tablet form—with the X-11 Reducing Plan helps lose excessive weight, reduce inches. Don't go hungry. Eat 3 sensibly square meals a day while you slim down!

So you want to lose 5, 10, 25 or more pounds of excessive weight? ... Here now is an extraordinary easy figure-slimming Plan that offers you a way to get rid of unsightly, superfluous fat you're carrying—without strenuous exercises... and, most important of all, without missing a meal.

Now, with the X-11 Plan, you can remove pounds and inches from thighs, neck, legs, waist — all OVER — without ever going hungry — and stabilize reduced weight at a level you've always dreamed of holding as you follow the Plan. While you eat satisfying meals, no longer will you be the prisoner of the overeating habit, because with the X-11 Plan, you eat less and want less. So you lose weight... while you eat well.

NO EASIER REDUCING METHOD EVER DEVELOPED

1. COUNTERACTS HUNGER
Take one of these tablets a half-hour or so before your regular meals. It combines a pure vegetable extract that has no calories, and quickly starts acting to provide the feeling of a fuller, satisfied, contented stomach. You eat 3 satisfying balanced meals—eat what you want, but eat less.

2. ACTS AS APPETITE APPEASER
Part of the secret of this method is a unique ingredient that acts as a beneficial appetite appeaser, which puts a "brake" on your cravings for sweets, candy, pastries, rich gravies, High-Fat/High-Calorie foods—everything. It helps you conduct a kind of psychological warfare with yourself as you break some bad old eating habits you probably thought you were stuck with forever.

3. FORTIFIED WITH VITAMINS, MINERALS
Important to those who feel it their lot to feel jumpy, jittery, or fagged out when dieting. Your daily supply now combines a whole spectrum of vitamins and minerals, including: Vitamin A, Vitamin B1, Vitamin B2, Vitamin B6, Vitamin C, Nicotinamide, Vitamin E, Vitamin B12—all so important to helping prevent these nutritional deficiencies.

This Man Deserves What He Gets

DEAR ANN LANDERS. I know you'll never print this because it's a slam against your city, Chicago, but here it is anyway.

We moved here from Montana — where folks treat each other with consideration. Chicagoans have the loudest manners in the world. For example on the buses, people who don't have seats think nothing of asking a stranger who is seated to hold their packages, purses and what have you. I've gotten spots on my coat from leaky lunch bags and a rip in my sweater from a child's toy. This morning was the last straw — a woman asked me to hold her baby. You can guess what happened. When I handed her back the sopping wet child all she could say was, "Oh, my goodness!"

If you have any explanation for such stonish behavior on the part of your fellow citizens, I'd like to hear it. — Irate Man from Montana

Dear Irate Man?: I thought until I read your signature that you were a woman! I can offer no defense for people with such gall that they would ask strangers to hold their lunches and parcels. But that last incident is another ball of wax, my friend. A man who would remain seated on a bus and let a woman stand with a baby in her arms deserves whatever he gets.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Until six weeks ago I was going with a very interesting guy. A buddy of his came to town and asked me to get him a date. So I fixed him up with my best friend. The four of us went out together. After that evening my very interesting guy never called me again. He has been seeing my "friend" almost every night.

I tried to act as if I didn't care, but I cared plenty. Not because I lost him to her, but because she thought so little of our friendship that she accepted a date with him when she knew he was mine. Finally I got fed up pretending I lost my cool and told her exactly how I felt. She was dumbfounded — acted as if she had no idea I was hurt.

Am I justified in my feelings that she betrayed me?

Please comment — Kansas City Kitty

Dear Kitty: The guy you refer to as "yours" obviously was not. You didn't lose him. You never had him. A woman rarely loses a man to someone else. He first loses his interest in her — then someone else comes along.

Bury the hatchet and pass the peace pipe.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have a friend who is a perfect gentleman, but he has an oddball habit which baffles me. He extends his left hand instead of his right when greeting friends. At first I thought his hand might be crippled by arthritis, or an accident, but I've watched him carefully and he uses his right hand normally. Last night I decided to ask him why he prefers to shake left-handed. He replied, "It's a Scout custom." I didn't want to show my ignorance. What is he talking about? — Not Smart

Dear Not: In the manual of English Scouting, "Tenderfoot Queen Scout," it says, "When a famous Ashanti chief surrendered to Lord Baden-Powell, the latter extended his right hand as a token of friendship. The chief insisted on shaking with the left hand, explaining that the bravest of the brave shake hands with the left hand, since, in order to do so, he must throw away his greatest protection — the shield." Scouts shake hands with the left hand as proof of good faith and true friendship. (Copyright 1970)

"I couldn't be more delighted," said Albert Marks, executive director of the Miss America pageant, from Atlantic City Sunday. "Finally, the color line has been broken."

Miss Brownne, a B student at Luther, hopes to attend Columbia University in her hometown of New York for graduate work in psychology. She eventually wants to specialize in treatment of schizophrenic children.

Her talent routine at the Iowa pageant was an original dance sequence depicting a child's dream. "For me," she said, "portraying a little girl is easy."

Soapbox King of Fox Cities

Derby Champ Wins for His Brother

BY DAVID WEITZ
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

There were two drivers in the cockpit of orange No. 90 as it skimmed across the finish line Sunday to win the Fox Cities Soapbox Derby.

The 11-year-old winner, John Kieffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Kieffer, was racing for his brother. John will not keep the gleaming gold and walnut trophy he captured from the field of 141 racers. Instead his retarded brother Joey will have the winning plaque.

Throughout the day Joey had screamed enthusiastically for John to win.

"I'm racing it for Joey," John confided to his father as he was taken to the 50-foot ramp for his final plunge down the 975-foot track.

Then the green flag whipped down and just 30.6 seconds later John flashed across the white line, nosing out Dave Herrmann, 15, Class A champion, for the Fox Cities title. John also was the Class B champion.

As yellow-shirted race officials rushed forward, John asked anxiously who won the photo finish match.

Then a throng of spectators surrounded him as he was pushed in front of the judging stand to receive the trophy and kisses from Soapbox Derby Queen Cindy Farrell and Miss Appleton, Linda Lou Marx.

It was John's first try at the derby crown, but the Soapbox Derby is an annual event for the Kieffer family.

John's old brother Dan captured second place in 1965 and again in 1967. In 1966 he took sixth spot and in 1968 was the third place winner in Class A competition. Another brother, Bill won three races in 1967 before being eliminated from the match in a race against Dan.

John worked for nearly six months to fashion the torpedo-shaped car he raced down derby hill six times Sunday.

The next time he pilots the car it will be down the Gravity Grand Prix ramp at Akron, Ohio, where youngsters from about 250 communities throughout the United States will compete for $30,000 in scholarships.

"It was fun," was the comment of Dave Herrmann, the second place winner. For the last three years Dave has been defeated by cars which later went on to take the title. This is his last year of derby racing.

Gray skies seemed to threaten rain throughout the day, although the sky brightened about 3 p.m. shortly before final races took place. A cool east wind blowing steadily during the competition seemed to slow the average speeds of cars. As one official noted, "The wind has been playing games all day here." Despite the wind, however, some cars made the trip down derby hill in 30 seconds, an estimated 22 miles per hour.

Larry Strutz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Strutz, 2532 Oakwood Court, Appleton, flashed by photoelectric timers in 30.08 seconds to beat Mark Wallenfang, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Wallenfang, 324 S. Christine St., Appleton, to take third place.

During the derby dinner Sunday night the youngsters elected John Kieffer to receive the Clarence Mitchell Sportsmanship Award, a watch and trophy. As first place winner he received a $500 savings bond, derby jacket and a watch.

The derby was sponsored by the Appleton Jaycees, Gibson Chevrolet and WFRV-TV, Green Bay.

A Grimacing Fox Cities Soapbox Derby champion accepts his reward for victory Sunday afternoon. John Kieffer, 11, had just won first place in the Jaycee-sponsored derby on Appleton's W. College Avenue. Derby Queen Cindy Farrell, 12, bends over to give John the winning kiss. At right, Don Hawkins helps his son Steve with emergency repairs on Steve's entry in the annual event. Below, two young entrants begin the 975-foot race from a ramp constructed on the avenue viaduct. A total of 141 boys from ages 11 to 15 participated in the derby, with the champ winning a spot in the national derby in August in Akron, Ohio, where over 250 boys will compete. Church Pew Racer Best In Design

Jake Sarra rode down derby hill in a church pew Sunday in his bid to win the Fox Cities Soapbox Derby.

Jake's yellow lie-down racer was made from a 100-year-old church pew. Sunday night at the derby dinner it was named the best-designed car in the race.

Jake is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sarra, route 3, Fond du Lac. His father, who was building a house, had purchased old church pews and offered Jake the lumber for his racer.

The curved portion of the pew was changed only slightly to form a side and bottom of the racer. The laminated walnut was curved inward to form the other side of the car.

Jake worked four months to build the low-slung racer. "He didn't get into the design; it kind of evolved," his father said.

The finished product is typical of a new type of soapbox racer.

This new-style racer is designed low to the track and built just large enough to permit the pilot to lie nearly full-length in the cockpit.

The purpose of the new design is to eliminate wind resistance and improve the balance in the car. Jake used a rubber cover to seal himself in his torpedo-like No. 117.

Graduating Lawrence University seniors—with and without caps and gowns—await their turns to receive diplomas Sunday from University President Thomas A. Smith. About 100 of the 260-member

'I Didn't Come Here to Praise You...'

Graduates Taken to Task

"Please don't suburbanize your souls," asked George Smalley, lecturer in Russian at Lawrence University of the 260 graduating seniors at the university's commencement ceremonies Sunday.

Declaring he would "avoid the traditional clichés" of the "traditional commencement address," Smalley took the graduating class to task for what he considers the two major faults of its generation — "a deadly lack of a sense of humor and an incredible amount of naivete."

"I didn't come here to praise you," Smalley said, "because you know the hopes we have for you and because you so repeatedly praise yourself much more eloquently than I could ever hope to do."

Smalley is winner of last year's Edward and Rosa Urig Award for Excellent Teaching. He has been a member of the faculty at Lawrence since 1961.

"Retreat From Life"

The "suburbanization of the soul" Smalley referred to was explained as "a retreat from life... the erection of as many barriers as possible between you and life."

"Geographical barriers are followed by economic, class, race, religious and generational ones," he said.

"The old are exiled to Arizona or Florida, death is shunned by keeping terminal cases semi-vegetables in a hospital, money replaces love, parents don't quarrel in front of children, work and strife and differences are banished forever."

"Heaven is a ranch house with Doris Day, 20 minutes from a commuter train and the golf course."

"Don't be cowards. Move back to the city," Smalley advised. "Raise your kids with blacks and orientals. Catholics, all the playgrounds on Wednesday and a second weight training session is scheduled. Thursday will be organization day for the chorus, square dance club and the chess and Smalley found naivete in the younger generation's demands, pimple on your nose. It doesn't really hurt, but, oh, how it annoys."

"It is one thing to demand perpetual happiness," Smalley said, "but it is quite another thing to fall into deep depression whenever one of your demands isn't met — and this you do with monotonous regularity."

"Don't expect life to provide you with perpetual fun. Mostly life is like a small cavity, or a really hurt, but, oh, how it annoys."

One naive supposition of the college generation cited by Smalley was that "adulthood in our culture depends upon chronological age."

"It doesn't," Smalley said. "It depends on economic self-sufficiency. Only when you have killed your lion, that is, when you're making it on your own, can you be treated as an adult." Smalley offered this as a reason why the worker or businessman doesn't take college students seriously when they talk about Vietnam or they condemn adult ways of living.

"The worker and businessman wants to know what right you have to teach him about Vietnam when you know nothing of life as he knows it."

Vocal Generation

"Your generation has been very vocal in its condemnation of adult ways of living," Smalley added.

"Let's hope that this amounts to more than mere words. I suspect we would all be horrified to know how many of you in a very brief time will be money-grubbing, wife-swapping, upper middle, lily white, country club, snob-bogles whose politics will be based on taxes and whose morality will be founded on convenience and discretion."

The "deadly lack of a sense of humor" which Smalley also found to be a major fault of the younger generation is a serious handicap, he said.

"Next to air, water and food, the most important requisite for human survival is humor. Life is hard, it was, and at times will be harder. Without humor, you'll drown in your own sentimentality and self-pity."

Recreation Department

Summer Arrives At 17 Playgrounds

Summer playground activities went into full swing in 17 areas this morning under the supervision of the Appleton Recreation Department.

Opening day was "get acquainted day" with interviews and registration of children nine years of age and older. Name tags were prepared, mixer games were played and children were told about playground rules and introduced to their leaders and helpers.

During the afternoon, groups discussed various events they would like to take part in this year. At 7 p.m. leaders will participate in a square dance workshop at Pierce Park, and a weight training program at Appleton High School-West at 6:30 p.m.

Highlights on Tuesday include organized games and a scavenger hunt. At 7 p.m. leaders will have a gymnastic workshop at Appleton High School-East.

There will be a box social at all the playgrounds on Wednesday and a second weight training session is scheduled. Thursday will be organization day for the chorus, square dance club and the chess and checker club, and a square dance will be held at 7 p.m. at Pierce Park.

Sports organization day for team sports, softball, basketball, volleyball and soccer is set for Friday.

Daily activities during the first week of the summer program will also include arts and crafts, story hours, physical fitness and games.

Playgrounds are located at Huntley, St. Pius, Richmond, Edison, Madison, Foster, Columbus, Washington, Lincoln and Sacred Heart schools, and at Pierce, Linwood, Northside, Kiwanis, Erb, Schaffer, Alicia and Bellaire parks.

Playground hours are 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 9 a.m. to 12 noon Friday. Staff meetings will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Fridays. Evenings will be reserved for special events.

The administrative staff consists of Lloyd (Bud) Koehnke, director of recreation; Larry Witzke, playground director; Peter Ryerson, playground coordinator; Ann Miller, Neenah

Arson Suspected in Vacant House Blaze

Inspectors from the Appleton Fire Department are investigating a fire about 10 a.m. today which sent four units to a vacant home in the 1200 block of N. Appleton Street.

They suspect arson.

The fire, which started in the floor of a dining room, burned through the floor but was confined to that room. Officials cleared smoke from the house.

Melody Sent to Buckley

Appleton No Longer Unsung

Chicago, that toddlin' town, and San Francisco, where people keep leaving their hearts, can move over. Now there's a song about Appleton.

Jay Main, a 1940 graduate of Appleton High School and later a music student at Lawrence College, mailed a copy to Mayor George Buckley, explaining, "I simply could not resist the urge to try to show my feelings in the idiom of song."

He enclosed a copy of the words and tune, entitled, "Appleton, We Love You."

Main said he had hoped to bring the song to the July reunion of the high school; Class of 1940, but now finds he won't be able to attend, so he asked the mayor to see if a local barbershop quartet could do the honors at the reunion.

Main said he graduated in the same class with Buckley's wife, the former Darlene Knoke. "Thirty years ago this month, we of our high school class set a precedent by blowing out all the lights in town during our graduation," Main wrote, without further elaboration. He said Buckley's wife was in "that auspicious group."

The mayor was searching for someone who could play the melody on a piano and sing it so he could record it on tape.

Council to Weigh Adams' Ideas for Little Lake Bridge

MENASHA — Mayor James Adams personally delivered a five-page "memorandum" to aldermen Friday in which he described the "alternatives and possibilities" for a proposed Ninth Street bridge in the town of Menasha.

The memorandum, which he took around by car to all 12 aldermen Friday, will be the subject of discussion at tonight's common council committee of the whole session beginning at 7:15 p.m.

The mayor would not release the contents of the memorandum.

The memorandum is an outgrowth of the meeting the

Free Parking Disappears From Airport

OSHKOSH — No more free parking at Whitman Field. Starting at 6 a.m. today, the lot is pay only. Conversion of the lot was completed last Thursday.

Michael Brock, airport manager, said, "We have to make some money." The money will be at least $3,500, paid by the Airport Parking Company of America (APCOA) to the county, but that instead, trucks and other transport must go through the minimum guarantee. He wouldn't hazard a guess about what would come in above that amount, but the county gets a percentage of the action.

The lot has 112 spots for rent: 25 cents the first hour, 10 cents thereafter up to $1.25 for the whole day. There will also be 15 meters and 15 spots for the three rental car agencies. The rental car businesses get the spots free, but pay the county 8 per cent of their revenues. Airport employees, maintained by APCOA. Four employees will man it from 6 a.m. to 1 a.m. every day, including weekends.

Plight of Downtown Gloomy in Midwest

MENASHA — Everyone was a little "pessimistic" at a 3-day meeting of housing and redevelopment officials that city Redevelopment Director Robert Osheim attended last week.

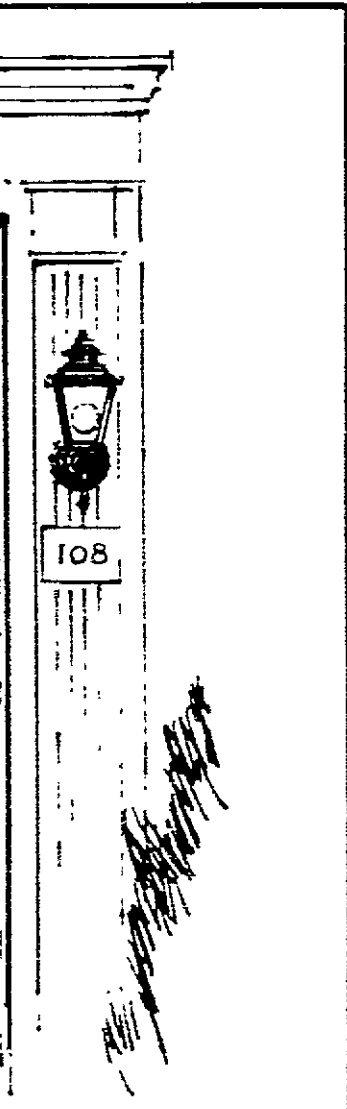

They were pessimistic about the future of federally-funded projects because of decreasing federal funds for urban renewal and other projects coupled with an increase in the number of programs and communities applying for such programs.

Better for Menasha For Menasha, Osheim said today, things may be a little better. The city is not seeking federal urban renewal aid in its downtown project.

Among the news at the Des Moines, Iowa, meeting of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials, was word that about 50 per cent of the cleared land in all urban renewal projects in the country's north-central regional was lying vacant because of difficulties in finding developers.

Can't Attract Developers They "just can't attract developers" into the projects because of inflation and the tight money market, Osheim said.

He said two real estate development firms were not investing in new projects because of the economic crisis. Some thought

Sewerage Panel Seeks Federal Funds

MENASHA — The sewerage commission is taking steps to get a full view of the confusion surrounding federal aid and requirements to get it.

Things are changing, according to Larry Michaels, Fox Valley Council of Government staffer. Now construction okayed by a planning agency is eligible for up to 80 per cent aid.

Michaels told the commission that this would no longer be true after Sept. 30. After that date plans must not only be approved by a regional planning agency to get federal funds, they must also conform to the agency's plans.

Northeastern The sewerage commission will invite Northeastern Regional Planning Commission to present its side at the next meeting. "We've heard from COG twice, and we'd like to listen to the other people now," said commission president Gilbert Krueger today.

"COG has strongly intimated that we have to go through amount and types of waste they have and will have in the future."

Additional entertainment on land will be presented from 5 to 6:45 p.m., climaxed by the coronation of the queens. More music, a tour of the harbor by the queens on the police boat would and the annual fireworks display will complete this year's activities.

Chairman of the event is Roger Brown. In charge of the entertainment is Marty Waskie-wicz and Dave Miracle; funds of Richard Steffes; concession, Dave Sommer and Don Blaisdel; queens, Hugh Pitts, and kids programs. John Se-keres.

Two-Day Festival The Paperland Festival will be expanded this year to include activities on both July 3 and 4.

Activities on July 3 from 5 to 11 p.m. will include a German beer garden at Fox Point Shopping Center, beer, bratwurst, music, games and appearances by the queens and their courts, music from 7 to 11 p.m. by Johnny Check and the Wisconsin Dutchmen, and balloons, souvenirs and sparklers for the children.

Water Show Saturday's activities will begin at 10 a.m. with supervised children's activities at Riverside Park. This will be followed by various bands and musical groups, leading up to the 24-hour water show beginning at 12:30 p.m. and featuring the Pfister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Pfister, 535 Chatham Court, and Jo Ann Abba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Abba, route 1, both of Neenah.

one big plant to handle all the waste water in the area. It would be built in Kaukauna. Neither option says anything about an expansion of the Twin City plant. The COG plans were prepared by Donohue & Associates, Sheboygan engineers, who designed the Neenah-Menasha plant. Krueger said, "Donohue hasn't built a plant that works yet."

He said that any vote by COG members on Donohue plans would not be on treatment of wastes — "what do town chairmen know about sewage treatment?" — but would be "a vote of confidence in Donohue." Krueger expressed his lack of confidence in the firm as last week's COG meeting.

COG Meetings The commission has not been attending COG meetings regularly, and Krueger wrote a letter saying the commission hadn't been informed about meeting dates.

Eugene Franchett, COG director, wrote back saying the commission hadn't been left out and telling Krueger he would be notified of all meetings.

260 Get Degrees in Lawrence Exercises

Under overcast skies and in a ceremony underscored by concern for problems at home and abroad, Lawrence University held its 121st commencement exercises Sunday.

There were 260 degrees conferred by the university—233 in the arts and 27 in music—and many of the students who received them strode across the platform in front of Youngchild Hall displaying arm bands bearing the inverted "Y" of the peace movement.

About 100 of the seniors dispensed with caps and gowns entirely, choosing to donate the $3.50 fee for the traditional attire to organizations promoting the cause of peace.

It was, however, still a day of rejoicing for Class of '70, whose members received their degrees from President Thomas S. Smith.

Smith, who described himself as "in my freshman year" at Lawrence, wished the assembled seniors "the best of luck" and told them "our hopes for the future go with you."

George Smalley, lecturer in Russian at Lawrence and this year's principal commencement speaker, noted in his opening remarks that "this is a very tough year for commencement speakers" and declared that he found it difficult "to be optimistic and positive, or to talk about sweetness and light" in the face of the problems of poverty, human rights, war and pollution which face the nation today.

Of the 260 degrees conferred, 20 went to seniors who graduated magna cum laude. All at Lawrence from 26 states, the District of Columbia and three foreign countries. The 260 seniors received their degrees magna cum laude—42 in the arts and 24 in music.

A standing ovation was provided for Carol Ann Middleton, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who graduated summa cum laude with a degree in Russian history.

Among the graduates who received their degrees magna cum laude was one Appleton student. He was Walter E. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Brown, 609 N. Lawrence St., a major in mathematics.

Four of the graduates who received their degrees cum laude were from the Appleton area, two in the arts and two in music.

The music majors were Paul Emmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Emmons, 209 E. Hancock St., organ, and Nancy Jayne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Jayne, 124 Baldwin Court, flute.

Arts Graduates

The arts graduates who received their degrees cum laude were Lynne Louise Doerfler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doerfler, 1302 Oakcrest Court, French; and Dale E. Schuh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Schuh, 2403 Riverside Drive, Kaukauna.

In all, 17 members of the Lawrence Class of '70 were from the Fox Cities area.

Recognition was given at commencement to a number of Lawrence students who were the winners of prizes and awards announced previously.

Several other students learned for the first time that they had received departmental prizes away, and the Ruth DeYoung Kohler Hall for Women did not yet rise against the Lawrence skyline.

New on the academic scene was the "pass-fail" plan, established to emphasize educational experience rather than grades.

Under the plan, juniors and seniors may elect one course per term up to a total of six courses that do not apply toward the major and are not taken to fulfill a distribution requirement. Such courses do not affect the cumulative average for students, unless of course, the student elects to change from pass-fail to grade.

Students can't, however, change from grade to pass-fail, and a pass-fail course that is failed is reflected in the term cumulative averages.

"On This Our Day of Dedication . . . accept in mercy and favor the prayer of Thy children who gather here. . . ." With these words, the Jewish community of the Fox Valley marked two important events Sunday—the dedication of the new Moses Montefiore Synagogue and the installation of a new rabbi, Dov Edelstein, who offers a prayer in the presence of the congregation, synagogue officials and his colleagues from surrounding communities. Ground for the new building was broken in October, 1957 and it was occupied in April, 1969. Rabbi Edelstein, a native of Romania, lived in Israel for many years, moved to Canada in 1962 and served a congregation in Weirton, W.Va. before coming to Appleton.

Home Improvements Boom Through Fox Valley Area

Outagamie County families, as well as those in the neighboring counties, are going in for home improvements in a big way these days.

They are spending more money for alterations, additions, replacement and maintenance than they ever did.

In the past year, Outagamie home owners spent an estimated $9,682,000 to spruce up their homes, based upon government data showing average outlays per housing unit in the regional area. In the other counties, the total was $14,941,000.

It represented an average expenditure locally of $289 per unit. Nationally, the average was $285.

The other 39 per cent was for maintenance, repairs and general upkeep, including painting, plumbing, roof re-shingling, electrical work, floor sanding and the like.

To a greater extent than ever before, these jobs are being tackled by the owners themselves. This do-it-yourself trend was brought about by the high cost of labor and the scarcity of competent mechanics.

As a result, much of the $24,625,000 spent in the year in the area for home improvements went to local merchants selling paint, hardware, paneling, electrical supplies and such.

Other Fox Valley counties reflected similar trends. Winnebago County, for instance, is estimated to have 34,800 housing units and Winnebago spent $10 million in home improvements.

Waupaca County's total expenditure for improvements was $2.9 million for an estimated 9,900 housing units.

In Calumet County surveys show $2 million spent to improve and repair an estimated 7,000 housing units.

Motorcyclist in Hospital After Traffic Accident

KIMBERLY — An accident involving two cars and a motorcycle on Outagamie County Trunk CE Sunday night about 1 1/4 miles south of here sent the cycle rider to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Donald D. Coisman, 16, Brillion, was taken to the hospital by Larry's Ambulance with a left ankle burn and cuts to his leg and back.

Outagamie County traffic officers said an auto eastbound on County Trunk CE driven by Donald N. Arnold, 31, 2411 E. Peters St., struck the cycle, then spun around and collided with a westbound auto driven by Edwin O. Schumann, 52, 517 Desnoyer St., Kaukauna.

Kraft, 835 E. Commercial St., says there is increasing use of the long lie-down models. John Kieffer piloted one of the avant-garde cars to victory for the first time this year.

Kraft said the streamlined cars have little wind resistance but may be a gamble. The cars are more complicated to build than conventional designs and cannot be fixed in case of an accident. But for Jake Sarra, the lie-down car was a success.

Future of Agitation, Revolt Pictured at Commencements

'U.S. Clearly on Threshold of Revolution,' Howard Class Told

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The president of Howard University, speaking during another busy day of commencement ceremonies, has told graduating blacks that America has entered the 1970s "clearly on the threshold of a revolution."

Elsewhere on the nation's campuses Sunday, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., urged a group of business institute graduates to "awaken corporations to social needs by agitating for employee representation in the decision making process."

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., told the City College of New York commencement that the nation needs a second, non-violent American revolution to square its policies and priorities with its founding ideals.

Howard President Dr. James E. Cheek, one of four Negroes named by President Nixon Saturday to a special commission to study the causes and cures of campus unrest, addressed Shaw University graduates in Raleigh, N.C.

Both Sides See Victory In Newark

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The bitterest mayoral campaign in Newark history neared a close today with a prediction by the white incumbent of "something, sensational" at his extortion conspiracy trial.

Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio and black civil engineer Kenneth A. Gibson each predicted victory. More than 133,000 persons are eligible to vote in Tuesday's runoff election in which racism has been a major issue.

Gibson made his first direct attack Sunday on alleged corruption in the Addonizio administration. Addonizio was specifically endorsed for the first time by Anthony Imperiale, a militant white law and order advocate who finished third in the May 12 election.

Addonizio and six codefendants, including former city officials and a reputed Mafia figure, are on trial in federal court in Trenton on charges of conspiring to extort money from contractors doing business with the city.

U. S. Women Raped During Jordan Civil Fighting, Two Arabs Executed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestinian guerrilla leaders said Sunday that two Arabs were executed for raping two American women during last week's wild fighting in Amman between commandos and Jordanian army troops.

While the situation in Jordan appeared to be cooling, Israeli warplanes resumed their attacks on Egyptian military positions along the Suez Canal over the weekend, and Israeli commandos staged a raid into Jordan.

Planked by two bodyguards, armed with submachine guns, Yasser Arafat, head of the Al Fatah commandos, told a news conference in the Jordanian capital that one rape case had been brought to his attention. He said the guilty Arab was arrested, tried and executed.

Later another Al Fatah spokesman told newsmen that a second Arab had been executed for raping another American woman. He added that both women had been evacuated from Jordan.

Court Rules On Draft Law

meaningful belief" occupied his life in a manner parallel to that filled by God in more traditional religions believers.

The draft law provision interpreted by the court is the one that exempts from combat and non-combat service men who "by reason of religious training and belief... (are) conscientiously opposed to participation in war in any form."

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., addressing the Stanford University commencement in California, said the nation faces a "crisis of dissent" and urged an end to the Indochina involvement and renunciation of the role of world policeman.

Common Effort

He said the nation should seek out issues on which there is consensus, such as pollution, "and marshal all of our forces in a common effort to solve the problems."

Nearly half of the Stanford graduates appeared without traditional caps and gowns in a peace demonstration.

At the University of California at Santa Barbara, most of the graduates read aloud a statement of commitment that said in part: "We... do solemnly swear to dedicate our lives in the hopes of achieving a better world, a world in which perpetual, just peace shall reign."

The school has been the scene of periodic disruptions since February when young people burned down a bank in the nearby campus community of Isla Vista, but the ceremonies Sunday were quiet.

Two Ceremonies

There were two graduation ceremonies for the University of Illinois Chicago campus Sunday—an official exercise at Chicago Stadium and a rump ceremony attended by about 100 students and faculty who walked out.

Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith gave the same address to both gatherings. Activist Dick Gregory spoke to the alternate ceremony, urging graduates to "rally behind morality. Go for victory, not revenge" and change the ills of America.

Equal Fervor

The justice said the government, which had asked the court to uphold Welsh's three-year sentence, conceded that his beliefs "are held with the strength of more traditional religious convictions."

Black said the 1965 decision "made it clear that these sincere and meaningful beliefs which prompt the registrant's objection to all wars need not be confined in either source or content to traditional or parochial concepts of religion."

What is necessary for a regis-trant to meet the "religious" exemption test of the draft law, Black said, "is that this opposition to war stem from the registrant's moral, ethical or religious beliefs about what is right and wrong and that these beliefs be held with the strength of traditional religious convictions."

What Is Right

Supreme Reality—a God who communicates to man in some way a consciousness of what is right and should be done, of what is the source, and content but which nevertheless impose upon him a duty of conscience to refrain from participating in any war at any time, those beliefs certainly occupy in the life of that individual a place parallel to that filled by God in traditionally religious persons.

Welsh affirmed a deep conscientious scruple against taking part in wars where people are killed. He stated he believed "the taking of life—anyone's life — to be morally wrong."

Like Daniel Andrew Seeger in the 1965 decision, Black said, Welsh strongly believed killing in war was wrong, unethical and immoral and that his conscience forbade him to take part "in such an evil practice."

Black noted both men preferred to go to jail rather than enter the armed forces.

"There was never any question about the sincerity and depth of Seeger's convictions as a conscientious objector, and the same is true of Welsh," Black wrote.

Cudahy to Organize Campaign for Proxmire

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire's re-election campaign organization announced Sunday that Richard D. Cudahy, president of Patrick Cudahy Inc., has been named the congressman's campaign manager.

U.S. Accused

Arafat accused the United States of triggering the fighting in Jordan—in which 700 persons were killed or wounded—and warned that U.S. intervention would turn the Middle East into another Vietnam.

Suez Sites

The Egyptian government said 60 Israeli planes attacked positions along the Suez Canal in a series of raids that started Saturday night and ended Sunday at noon.

The statement said five Egyptian soldiers were wounded and one Israeli plane was hit by anti-aircraft fire.

The Tel Aviv command said a small Israeli army force attacked an Arab guerrilla base eight miles east of the Jordan River Saturday night, when tensions were still running high between guerrillas and King Hussein's army.

A Jordanian account of the raid, which was the first into Jordan since March 5, said the Israelis came in a single helicopter, blew up an isolated house, kidnapped a teacher and an old farmer, and then returned to the west bank of the river. The Israelis said they took two Arab prisoners after destroying a guerrilla base.

The report said after the attack, a guerrilla patrol clashed with an Israeli unit.

The Lebanese government last month decreed that from today firing across the border and the laying of mines close to it would be prohibited.

Jordanian Interior Minister Najib Ruseidat said in a broadcast that reports from throughout the country indicated conditions were normal again. Joint army-guerrilla patrols toured Amman, urging the people to return to work. Representatives of the government, the army and the guerrillas announced an agreement that the guerrillas would not carry arms in the

Final Report on Apollo 13 Ready

By HOWARD BENEDECT AP Aerospace Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special review board studying the near tragic Apollo 13 lunar mission has finished its final report on the cause of the in-space explosion that endangered the lives of three astronauts and ruined man's third attempt to walk on the moon.

Review board Chairman Edgar M. Cortright prepared the findings, expected to be critical of management shortcomings, for delivery today to Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The main thrust of today's report was an evaluation of how the explosion happened, where to place any blame and how to avoid the problem in future flights.

An earlier report by Cortright pinned the oxygen tank explosion on the failure of two thermal switches he said were subjected to an electrical overload during a test at Cape Kennedy two weeks before the April 11 launch.

Anticipating that hardware changes will be necessary, NASA has postponed the launching of Apollo 14 to the moon for two months, to Dec. 3.

Cortright, director of NASA's Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va., was assisted on the board by astronaut Neil A. Armstrong and top safety officials and engineers from government, industry and universities.

Tank Rupture

The 26-inch-diameter oxygen tank ruptured April 13, about 205,000 miles from earth, as astronauts James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. neared the moon. The blast drained their command ship of oxygen and power and forced the astronauts to use the separate systems of their lunar module to save their lives.

The lunar ship, which was to have transported Lovell and Haise to the moon, served as the astronauts' "lifeboat" for four harrowing days as they swept around the back of the moon and streaked back to a safe landing in the Pacific Ocean.

More Gobbledygook Comes from USDA

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE
WASHINGTON — The late great James Thurber must have had the U.S. Department of Agriculture in mind when he wrote that delightful little fable, "The Weaver and the Worm." "Where do you get that stuff?" asked the weaver as he spotted a silkworm spinning a cocoon. "Do you want to make something of it?" replied the worm. Whereupon, said Thurber, each went his own way, thinking the other had insulted him.

The point, said Thurber, is that much of what we say and hear is gobbledygook. He wound up his story with a moral: "A word to the wise is not sufficient if it doesn't make any sense."

Expect Nonsense
The trouble is that Thurber's message has not penetrated many of the walls and craniums at the Department of Agriculture. That sprawling monstrosity produces more tons of gobbledygook per capita each year than any other government division except Congress.

Americans have learned to expect plenty of nonsense along with advertising messages. But they may not realize the full amount of marshmallow fluff that comes from the USDA. Citizens deserve the truth about food from their government, but they don't always get it.

For example, take the recent speech themes of USDA Secretary Clifford M. Hardin. He has been stressing figures showing that average food prices went up 22 per cent in the past decade while the average for all living costs rose 30 per cent.

"Success Story"
He calls this "one of the great success stories of the age — the fact that food is a better buy than ever before in this or any other country." He then compares the proportion of income spent on food — 16.5 per cent — with higher figures in other developing countries. What he doesn't say is how little such averages and comparisons mean. There is a limit to what people will eat each day but no limit on income, so food is likely to decline even if food prices rise just as fast as income and total expenditures.

These figures also don't tell much about the great variations between income and age groups. Many people with limited incomes spend as much as half of their total incomes on food. Price increases hurt them most. The figures also don't tell much about the great differences in conditions between this country and others, differences so huge that valid comparisons are virtually impossible to make.

The figures also don't tell much about what the USDA has been doing about food prices. Its policies and programs are chiefly designed to raise prices by limiting supplies through import and crop restrictions. Yet farmers generally have been getting a declining share of retail prices.

If this is a great success story, then gobbledygook has taken over, and it may be more than a coincidence that the latest Home and Garden Bulletin (No. 176) of the USDA is entitled: "Nuts in Family Meals: A Guide for Consumers."

Not everything the USDA does is so nutty, but the proportion of it seems to be rising at least as fast as food prices are.

Police Ready For Cyclists In Calumet
CHILTON — An alert Calumet County Sheriff's Department may have prevented a motorcycle invasion here over the weekend.

On Friday, taverns, gas stations and other business places in the county were warned by the department that between 150 and 200 motorcyclists might be coming.

City of Chilton police and county deputies were put on stand-by in case of any incidents that could occur because of the cycle crowd. But the cyclists, possibly getting the hint, didn't show up in any numbers.

It was reported today by county investigator Donald Kossman that there were no incidents even though several groups of cyclists were in and around the county.

TOTAL	$1,484,053.00
Mr. Schneider then led a discussion in the merits of the gym wing as proposed in Alternate 1. It was pointed out by Mr. Becker that the building of the addition would decrease the space on the outside of the building and that additional indoor space would be a definite asset in the planning of athletic events to provide a well-rounded athletic program.
Mr. Sager then asked for a total of all low bids submitted with Alternate 1 (the gym wing) to be added. The following were considered:
Lauer Brothers Plus Alt 1	$897,600.00
Three Utschig Co Plus Alt 1	$64,400.00
ELECTRICAL
M. & S. Electric Plus Alt 1	224,000.00
HEATING
Tschank & Christensen Plus Alt 1	243,400.00
PLUMBING
Wangel Brothers Plus Alt 1	78,700.00
PAINTING
Lochman Painting Plus Alt 1	28,895.00
FOLDING PARTITIONS
Richards-Wilcox Plus Alt 1	11,371.00
DEMOUNTABLE PARTITIONS
Norden Company	12,930.00
TOTAL	$663,487.00
Therefore, Theo Utschig's figure for the General Contract including Alternate 1 would bring the total to $1,727,714.00 and Lauer Brothers figure including the gym wing, would bring the total figure to $1,447,887.00. This would mean that if the gym wing would be accepted as part of the addition to be built, Lauer Brothers would become the low bidder on the General Contract by virtue of their low bid, which was $1,447,887.00.
Mr. Stevens pointed out the wide variation in the figures quoted by the bidders for Alternate 3 for brick walls as opposed to precast concrete.
Mr. Sager then pointed out to all present that the bond issue which had been voted for this purpose was in the amount of $1,500,000.00 and that with the cost of equipment alone estimated to be around $150,000.00, we are faced with a money shortage in view of the amounts of the low bids as submitted by the bidders. It was felt that approximately $1,500,000.00 would be needed without the gym wing being built and approximately $1,500,000.00 would be needed with the gym wing.
Mr. Stevens ventured the suggestion that the members of the Fiscal Control Board be approached on the possibility of our getting more money for the purpose of building and equipment this addition in the lobby of the Outagamie County Courthouse. In response to a query by Mr. Becker, Outagamie County, Wisconsin, on the 3rd of August, 1970, at 10:00 in the forenoon of that day, the real estate and premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

Toss Paper Cups Softly To Top Throwing Contest

BY CAPPY DICK

Here's a game to make at home out of easy-to-find materials. It's a paper-cup tossing game.

Prepare as many large paper cups as you believe you will have players from time to time -- three or four, for example. For each cup you will need four spring-type clothespins (see figure 1) and some transparent tape. You also will need a felt-tipped marking pen.

Clip four clothespins to the rim of each cup and anchor them in place with a strip of transparent tape. The cups are to be tossed to the floor and it is important for the clothespins to remain in position.

Use the marking pen to print big numbers, going from 1 to 4, on the sides of each cup, placing them between the clothespins as shown in figures 1 and 2. These numbers are point values. This completes the equipment.

The game is played by tossing the cups a distance of about four feet to land on the floor. The player's score for his toss is the number that is uppermost when the cup comes to rest. The clothespins will act as stops to prevent a cup from rolling after it lands.

The players take turns. The first one to score 29 points wins the game.

Universal Film Studio Has Sideline Bonanza

5 Millionth Visitor in 6 Years
Expected to Tour Lot This Month

By GENE HANDSAKER — Tourists flock onto matresses. Today's visitors see the new attractions nearing completion: a glorified entrance with stone walks, circular roofs, splashing fountains, lagoons and statuary.

That's a smattering of the attractions on Universal Studio's tour of its 42-acre, 55-year-old lot, a sideline bonanza so successful that:

—The five millionth visitor in six years is expected late this month.

—$2 million worth of improvements and additions are being hammered, sawed and plastered to completion.

Animal Park
They range from an "Ark" where kids may pet pig-deer, Mexican vultures, owls, my goats and climb aboard sleepy monster tortises, to an after-dark night club for young adults, outdoors amid trees, fountains and statues.

Universal won't say just how profitable the tours, capitalizing on everyday folks' desire to see inside a movie studio, have been.

But at prices from $3.85 for adults, $2.85 for juniors—12-17 inclusive—and $1.85 for children 5-11—under 5 are free with adults—the return ain't—as they'd say on the tour's Ma and Pa Kettle farm—hay.

Besides, the average tourist lingers four hours, buys lunch or snacks and souvenirs such as rubber bricks like those the stummen hurl into the crowd to climax their show.

Helps Industry

So with the movie industry generally in the doldrums, the tours obviously help sustain parent MCA between rare box office hits like the current "Airport."

Twenty-one 93-occupant tour-buses, "GlamorTrams," depart every few minutes from a hilltop reception center. Attractively young spielers describe the sights over loudspeakers.

The Law and You Clarity Aim of Legal Terms, Not Confusion

BY THE WISCONSIN BAR

Many persons feel that the "whereas," "aforesaid," and other legal verbiage is used by the lawyer for the purpose of confounding the layman.

Nothing could be further from the truth. In drafting legal documents, the lawyer attempts to draft them in such a way as to exclude all ambiguities so that they can mean only one thing.

Most any paragraph of non-legal language contains numerous ambiguities. When a lawyer refers to the "deed aforesaid," he is attempting to make it clear beyond question that the deed he is referring to is the deed mentioned in a prior portion of the instrument. Likewise, when he prefaces a legal document with a long list of "whereas," he is simply reciting pertinent facts for the benefit of the court to show the facts of the situation that lead to the execution of the instrument.

Different Meanings

Consequently the lawyer knows in using them that their meaning is settled, and that they will operate to properly transfer the title. He would be inviting litigation for his client, if instead of using those words, he devised new language to express the same purpose.

As a result, the lawyer, in the interest of his client, naturally uses the time-tested language instead of experimenting with new language.

Winning, Waiting Name of Game for Detroit, Yankees

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees are waiting for Sept. 15 and the Detroit Tigers are waiting for July 1, but the Baltimore Orioles may be getting the message right now that there's a race in the American League East.

"If this were Sept. 15 and we were three games behind, I might have something to say," said Ralph Houk after his Yankees nipped Kansas City 3-2 Sunday for their fifth straight victory and 10th in 11 games and remained three games behind Baltimore.

"They've got a good-hitting ballclub," California's Lefty Phillips after the Tigers pounded his Angels 8-4. "and if they're close when Denny McLain comes back on July 1 they can win it." The Tigers have won eight of 11 and trail Baltimore by eight games.

The Orioles, meanwhile, who had lost eight of 13 after opening a 7½-game lead, righted themselves with a 4-2 triumph over Oakland on Dave May's two-run, two-out homer in the 10th inning.

Brewers Crushed Elsewhere. Minnesota routed

Boston 10-2. Washington swept a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 8-4 and 5-3 and Cleveland crushed Milwaukee 9-2. The Yankees fell behind Kansas City 2-0 in the first inning when Amos Otis doubled. Joe Kough singled and Ed Kirkpatrick doubled. But they battled back after Dick Drago retired

Sayers Gets Whizzer White Award From Players Group

CHICAGO (AP) — Halfback Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears was presented with the Justice Byron R. "Whizzer" White Award, the top presentation at the National Football League Players Association Awards Dinner Sunday night.

Sayers, last season's NFL rushing leader, was unable to attend the dinner at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, which attracted more than 900 persons at $125 per plate.

The White Award is presented annually to the player who serves his team, community and country in the spirit of Byron Raymond White.

Bolin Will Face Orioles Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians continued to smash away at Milwaukee's pitching staff Sunday, tapping starter Skip Lockwood for seven hits and five runs in 3½ innings.

"They just hit my best pitches," the former $75,000 bonus recipient related.

Meanwhile, Steve Dunning, picked up last week on a $60,000 bonus, made his big-league debut, allowing the Brewers only five hits in five innings to aim Cleveland toward a 9-2 victory.

Milwaukee's two runs off Dunning were in the third inning when Ted Kubiak walked and came home on Tommy Harper's 11th home run of the season.

In the bottom of the third, Cleveland took command, tying the game on Eddie Leon's homer. Vada Pinson's triple and

Sheboygan Duo Return Home Tuesday

Wins Title in NEW Best-Ball

Tom Beaumont, Testwuide Beat Fondy Twosome

WISCONSIN RAPIDS — The Sheboygan Pine Hills duo of Tom Beaumont and Tom Testwuide reign as the 1970 North-eastern Wisconsin Golf Association Best-Ball champions.

Beaumont and Testwuide, both in their early 30's, defeated "Fuzzy" Tighe and Wally Tack, Fond du Lac South Hills, 1-up in the title match. Tighe had a chance to send the competition into a playoff on the final green but missed an 8-foot putt.

Due to an error on the scoreboard at the Bull's Eye Country Club, Tighe and Tack were reported to have been eliminated in the quarter-finals by Green Bay Oneida's Nick Wahl and Tom Floberg, but in reality the Fondy pair had won, 1-up on the 20th hole.

In Sunday's semi-finals matches in the championship bracket, Tighe and Tack edged Bull's Eye's Bill Brazeau and Owen Perry, 2 and 1, while Beaumont and Testwuide tipped West Bend's L. C. Carroll and H. C. Martin, 1-up.

In the A Flight championship match, Bull's Eye's Bud Budd and Tom Ellis beat Green Bay Oneida's Paul Kast and Jim White, 1-up.

In a semi-finals match in A Flight, Chilton Hackory Hills' Tim Wainscott and Dave Nowak lost to Kast and White, 6 and 4.

The B Flight title went to Sheboygan Pine Hills' Al Steffen and Jim Lohr, who beat West

Bill Sudakis' 2-Run

Homer Defeats Cubs In 9th Inning, 5-4

BY DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Infectious hepatitis kept Los Angeles' Bill Singer on the shelf for two long months, but Bill Sudakis' 3½-week quarantine on the Dodgers' bench was result of a common ailment...disin- tegration of the batting average. Singer took a couple of shaky first steps back from the sickbed Sunday...and Sudakis discovered a sure cure with one swing of his bat.

Sudakis slammed a two-run pinch homer in the ninth inning, giving the Dodgers a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs after the Cubs' first loss since April 16, was fear. The major fear is getting rocked for two homers and kayed in the third.

The victory, which snapped a three-game Chicago winning string, sent the Dodgers into second place in the National League West, one-half game ahead of Atlanta but still 10½ off Cincinnati's torrid pace.

The Reds trounced Philadelphia 10-1; the Braves bowed to the New York Mets 7-5; San Diego nipped Pittsburgh 2-1; Montreal shaded Houston 2-1; and San Francisco topped St. Louis 7-4 in other NL games.

The Dodgers trailed 4-3 when Billy Grabarkewitz opened the ninth with a single off Chicago reliever Phil Regan. Two outs later, Sudakis batted for pitcher Jim Brewer and crashed his fourth homer of the season.

5th Appearance

It was only the fifth trip to the plate this month for Sudakis, who has not started a game since May 23. "No one wants to sit on the bench," said the 24-year-old infielder-catcher. "and it's tough to go up as a pinch hitter. But all I can do is go up there, look for a good pitch and take a cut at it."

Sudakis' first homer since May 20 boosted his batting average 11 points to .213.

Singer, a 20-game winner for the Dodgers last season, gave up a two-run homer by Jim Hickman in the second inning and two more runs, one of them by the Dodgers' Ernie Banks' homer in the third before he was lifted.

"I felt good; I just didn't get too many guys out," said the 6-foot-4 right-hander, who was 1-2 in April before being stricken with hepatitis and placed on the disabled list.

"Strength-wise, I felt fine. That's not the major fear. The major fear is getting someone out."

The Reds rattled four Philadelphia pitchers for 18 hits. Hal McRae leading the way with three, as right-hander Jim McGlothlin breezed to his ninth victory in 12 decisions. McGlothlin scattered six hits and drove in the only two runs he needed with a fourth-inning single.

Tom Seaver, tagged for four runs in the first three innings, blanked he Braves the rest of the game.

Brazil, West Germany Favored in Semi-Finals

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Brazil, Italy, and Uruguay go into the World Soccer Cup semifinals the Italians.

Wednesday and any of them could take the Jules Rimet trophy home for keeps.

West Germany, the other semi-finalist and winner in 1954, is the one team that can stop the famous trophy—named after the late President of the French Football Association—from disappearing from the world scene.

Brazil and Uruguay meet in one semi-final at Guadalajara, and Italy and West Germany in the other at Mexico City. This ensures a South American vs. Europe final at Mexico City's Aztec Stadium June 21.

Three Times

Rules state that if any team wins the trophy three times—on not necessarily in succession—it wins it outright.

Brazil won in 1958 and 1962. It won in 1934 and 1938 and Uruguay in 1930 and 1950.

Brazil is the favorite to win its semifinal and the Germans the 117th minute.

Luigi Riva, Italy's brilliant left winger, suddenly found his peak form in his team's 4-1 victory over host nation Mexico in Sunday's quarterfinals. Riva scored two goals, set up by Gianni Rivera, the midfield linkman.

Rivera, who like Riva came here with a big reputation, had shown little of the form expected of him until Sunday. In fact, Italy qualified for the quarter-final by scoring only one goal.

As soon as Riva and Rivera began clicking Mexico, which scored first, was dead.

In the other quarter-finals Sunday, Brazil beat Peru 4-1. West Germany defeated defending champion England 3-2 in an epic match which went into overtime after the Germans had trailed 2-0 early in the second half, and Uruguay knocked out the Soviet Union 1-0 with a goal scored by Victor Esparrago in the 117th minute.

JIM MURRAY Preview of 'Open' Given By Murray

This is the week of, as my friend, the scribe, Dan Jenkins, and the Czar, Joe Dey, like to remind you to call it, "THE Open Championship." Not to be confused with the best-ball, blind-bogey, member-guest, seniors, juniors, doubles, four-balls, four-handicap, or 18's-and-over flight. This is the heavy-weight championship of golf. This is for history, not the Junior Chamber. It's not invitational-only. It's as democratic as a sandtrap.

We bring you now the cluster of headlines which will come out of Chaska, Minn., this week, which we are able to bring you at this more convenient time because they are always the same year-after-year:

Glover Holds on For PBA Win In Portland Open

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — stocky Don Glover, a newly married 23-year-old pro from Bakers field, Calif., built up a 102-pin lead going into the final game and then held on for a 26-pin victory in the $32,500 Portland Open bowling tournament.

Glover lost the final game Saturday night to runner-up Earl Anthony, a burly southpaw from Tacoma, Wash. Anthony, who won his first Professional Bowlers Association crown in Seattle only the week before, defeated Glover 235-210 and picked up an additional 50 bonus pins for the triumph.

It was Glover's fifth PBA title and he went home with the $3,000 top prize. Anthony, 34, in his first full year on the tour, received $1,600.

Duels Kathy Whitworth Shirley Englehorn Rally Forces Title Playoff

BY DAVE O'HARA SUTTON, Mass. (AP)—Kathy Whitworth, who prefers sudden death play to break a tie, and Shirley Englehorn, who thinks titles should be decided at regulation distance, met in an 18-hole showdown today for the 18th Ladies PGA Golf Championship.

Miss Englehorn, a 29-year-old veteran playing the finest golf since she turned pro in 1959, had the 72nd hole Sunday, forcing an old score to settle with Miss Whitworth as they headed for a noon start at the Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Just three years ago, Miss Whitworth sank a 55-foot putt on the 72nd hole to edge Miss Englehorn by one stroke in the LPGA Championship on the same course.

Madison '9' Sweeps Pair Appleton Legion Team Drops 1-0, 10-1 Decisions

Madison got outstanding back-to-back pitching efforts here Saturday to sweep a non-league American Legion doubleheader from Appleton, 1-0 and 10-1.

Greg Brothers blanked Appleton in the opener as he scattered three hits, walked only one and fanned 11. Jeff Bergsbaken hurled 7-hit ball for Appleton, walking one and striking out three.

Madison scored its run in the third as John Knoche singled with one out, moved to second on a fly ball, stole third and raced home on George Vetter's single.

Appleton failed to move a runner to third and stranded two men at second.

An 8-run rally in the fifth inning sewed up the nightcap for Madison. Joe Van Gemert struck out 11, walked two and scattered six hits for the winners.

Paul Bowman, Dwight Mueller and Greg Miller pitched for Appleton and yielded 11 hits.

Appleton scored its only run of the day in the seventh on singles by Lee Bauman, Jeff Mueller and Paul Bowman.

Appleton is now 0-3.

Orioles, Yanks Both Triumph Sheboygan Duo Wins Title in NEW Best-Ball

Detroit's Willie Horton belted the first of two solo homers in the second inning off Clyde Wright and the Tigers wrapped it up with four runs in the third as Dick McAuliffe singled for one run and Bill Freehan singled home two more.

Unloads Again Norm Cash hit a two-run homer in the fifth and Horton unloaded again in the seventh while Jim Fregosi and Alex Johnson homered for the Angels, who fell 3½ games behind Minnesota in the AL West.

The Tigers are hoping to stay reasonably close for the rest of the month until McLain, their ace pitcher, comes off his gambling suspension.

"Denny can come back and step right into the rotation," said manager Mayo Smith. "I don't expect him to start right off, but he'll work in and when he gets in the groove he usually pitches complete ballgames."

May, who entered the Baltimore-Oakland game in the eighth inning as a defensive outfield replacement, hit his homer off Fred Talbot after Frank Robinson led off the 10th with a pinch single.

A walk, Ellie Hendricks' single, Felipe Alou's error and a single by Jim Palmer gave the Orioles two runs in the second off John "Blue Moon" Odom, but the A's kicked Palmer, 9-3 for two in the seventh on a bunt single. Reggie Jackson's double, Sal Bando's sacrifice fly and a single by Alou.

Minnesota's Jim Holt tripled to trigger a four-run fourth-inning burst and capped another

Artificial Turf Being Installed on UW Stadium Field

MADISON (AP)—Installation of a new artificial turf in Camp Randall Stadium at the University of Wisconsin started today.

The new carpet will replace one which has turned black since installation two years ago. The firm that originally sold the turf to the athletic department is replacing it free.

During the two-year period the green fibres broke off and black ones became dominant to turn the field that color.

The installation will take about four weeks, the university said.

Gurney Wins Series Opener McLaren Team Still Dominates Can-Am Porches Sweep LeMans

By BLOYS BRITT AP Auto Racing Writer Thanks to some brilliant driving by American star Dan Gurney, McLaren team still dominates the Canadian-American Challenge Cup racing series.

Gurney, at 37 one of the most versatile pilots in motor sports, drove one of the British-made bombs to victory in the 1970 series opener at Mosport Park, Ont., Sunday and did it as convincingly as the late builder-driver Bruce McLaren ever did.

McLaren was killed in a crash in England two weeks ago while testing one of his new cars. Gurney, the only American ever to drive a car of his own design to victory in World Grand Prix racing, joined the team as McLaren's replacement Friday.

Titanium Racer The lanky Californian toured the 2.459-mile Mosport Park circuit for 80 laps, or 197 miles, in 1 hour, 47 minutes and 05.6 seconds for an average speed of 110.214 miles per hour, a race record. He finished about 15 seconds ahead of Britain's Jackie Oliver, driving a radical new Chevrolet-powered car made principally from titanium.

Gurney collected $14,450 in prize and accessory money for his first Can-Am victory since 1966. Oliver, 28, a Grand Prix driver, received $10,350.

Denny Hulme, the 34-year-old New Zealander who was McLaren's driving mate during the last three years, when the two swept the Can-Am series almost without challenge, finished third despite a badly overheating car.

But Hulme, himself, obviously was not at his best. His hands were burned severely on May 12 while driving one of McLaren's new rear-engined Offys at Indianapolis.

Using special gloves to help grip the wheel, Hulme led Sunday's race for 45 laps before he began to fade. He was 1½-laps behind Gurney at the end, but race at Lancaster Speedway in Buffalo, N.Y., was postponed in had built up a good lead over Porsche-driving Tony Dean of definitely with track officials England, who came in fourth, blaming the postponement on Oliver, Gurney and Hulme the seven-car smashup Saturday at Syracuse.

In the Schaefer-U.S. Auto spectators and a nationwide television audience (ABC) to a Club 100-mile race at Syracuse, heated duel for more than half the race was halted in the 68th lap after the seven-car crackup.

Ron Grable of Supertino, Cal., won the Continental Championship for Formula A cars at 46th circuit of the 10-turn Laguna Seca raceway by 41.4 seconds. Oliver began making his seconds. Grable, in a Lola T190 move and swept by Gurney to averaged 99.7 m.p.h. for the 50-take the lead just before the lap race and won $5,600.

George Wintersteen of Villan, Pa., in a Lotus 70 special that Gurney could get by the second. Teammate Dick Britisher, but when he did the Smothers, the television star, was third, 1½-seconds further McLaren won six of last back.

Litjens collected three goals Sunday at Goodland Field. Goals by Litjens, Joey Gietman, another by Litjens, and one by Mark Mazzone put the Bombers ahead, 4-0, before Madison's scored to close the gap at halftime.

The visitors scored twice in the second half before Litjens tallied the game's final goal.

The game marks the end of the spring season for the league. Play resumes this fall.

In a C Flight semi-finals match, the team of John and Bob Hayes lost to Hislop and Kalatowski, 2 and 1.

Rhineland's Harold Sweet and Ed Pecore took the D Flight, edging Clintonville's Don Johnson and Sam Rulseh, 2 and 1.

F Flight laurels went to Skip Wefel and Pat Daly, Bull's Eye, who defeated Antigo's George Doverspike and Leon Kalkofen, 5 and 1.

WINNECONNE — The parish house of St. Thomas Catholic Church, Poygan, eight miles west of here, was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller, route 2, Onro, Sunday.

The house, built by Town of Poygan parish members in 1916, was sold at public auction along with furnishings and other parish items. Funds from the sale will go to the St. Thomas cemetery association Mr. and Mrs. Miller are a recently married couple who expressed interest in living in the area.

The small, century-old church at Poygan was closed last November when its pastor, Father John Quigley, a native of Manawa who had served the parish for more than 30 years, retired. Father Quigley had also served the parish at Poy Sippi, which has become a mission of Redgranite.

Poygan Catholics have been encouraged to join St. Mary parish, Winneconne, where a new church now under construction is expected to be completed by late fall, or to join the parish at Onro.

Employees Reject Contract Offer At Kiekhaefer

FOND DU LAC (AP) — Employees at three Kiekhaefer Mercury plants have overwhelming ly rejected a new contract, officials of the International Association of Machinists and a strike when necessary.

Aerospace Workers said Sunday. The old one-year contract, covering about 3,000 employees at the outboard motor company plants in Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and Cedarburg, expires at midnight today. Union officials refused to talk about specifics, but did say the union's negotiating committee was given the authority "to call a strike when necessary."

Future of Agitation, Revolt Pictured at Commencements

'U.S. Clearly on Threshold of Revolution,' Howard Class Told

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The president of Howard University, speaking during another busy day of commencement ceremonies, has told graduating blacks that America has entered the 1970s "clearly on the threshold of a revolution."

Elsewhere on the nation's campuses Sunday, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., urged a group of business institute graduates to "awaken corporations to social needs by agitating for employe representation in the decision making process."

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., told the City College of New York commencement that the nation needs a second, non-violent American revolution to square its policies and priorities with its founding ideals.

Social Justice

Howard President Dr. James E. Cheek, one of four Negroes named by President Nixon Saturday to a special commission to study the causes and cures of campus unrest, addressed Shaw University graduates in Raleigh, N.C.

He said the top priority for black Americans is to prevent the nation's two societies—black and white—from continuing to drift apart. He said demands of blacks are no longer for civil rights but for social justice.

"It is no longer simply a question of the rights of citizenship, but rather the question of the rights of humanity," said Cheek, adding that the question now was one of fundamentally altering American society.

"In the last 18 months, we have witnessed a developing resistance on the part of our political leadership to this emerging struggle, we have watched with growing alarm a steady retreat from the principles on which this nation was founded, and a steady march in the direction of repression and oppression," he said. "America the beautiful has been moving toward America the hysterical."

Outcome Unknown

"Clearly the nation has entered the decade of the seventies—if not already in the throes of an internal revolt, clearly on the threshold of a revolution whose outcome no one can predict," Cheek added.

Howard, the Washington, D.C., university headed by Cheek, is largely Negro.

Kennedy spoke to 200 graduates, all business majors, of Babson College in Wellesley, Mass. At a news conference afterward he predicted that students next year will "redirect their frustrations" over war, poverty and racism into effecting change in an "orderly way."

At the CCNY ceremonies, McGovern said the United States "has wandered so far from its ideals that it has all but lost its way."

Valuable Insights

He said there were valuable insights to be gained from critics on both the left and right. "But I have come to a deepening conviction that the surest hope for America lies neither with a new set of ideals, nor an entirely new system," he said. "Rather our hope lies with a genuine affirmation of the nation's historic ideals and more intelligent effort to modify and influence the system to serve those ideals more effectively."

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., addressing the Stanford University commencement in California, said the nation faces a "crisis of dissent" and urged an end to the Indochina involvement and renunciation of the role of world policeman.

Common Effort

He said the nation should seek out issues on which there is consensus, such as pollution, "and marshal all of our forces in a common effort to solve the problems."

Nearly half of the Stanford graduates appeared without traditional caps and gowns in a peace demonstration.

At the University of California at Santa Barbara, most of the graduates read aloud a statement of commitment that said: "We . . . do solemnly swear to dedicate our lives in the hopes of achieving a better world, a world in which perpetual, just peace shall reign."

The school has been the scene of periodic disruptions since February when young people burned down a bank in the nearby campus community of Isla Vista, but the ceremonies Sunday were quiet.

Two Ceremonies

There were two graduation ceremonies for the University of Illinois Chicago campus Sunday—an official exercise at Chicago Stadium and a rump ceremony attended by about 100 students and faculty who walked out.

Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith gave the same address to both gatherings. Addressing the rump ceremony, he urged graduates to "rally behind moral issues, to change the U.S. of America."

U. S. Women Raped During Jordan Civil Fighting, Two Arabs Executed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestinian guerrilla leaders said Sunday that two Arabs were executed for raping two American women during last week's wild fighting in Amman between commandos and Jordanian army troops.

While the situation in Jordan appeared to be cooling, Israeli warplanes resumed their attacks on Egyptian military positions along the Suez Canal over the weekend, and Israeli commandos staged a raid into Jordan.

Flanked by two bodyguards armed with submachine guns, Yasir Arafat, head of the Al Fatah commandos, told a news conference in the Jordanian capital that one rape case had been brought to his attention. He said the guilty Arab was arrested, tried and executed.

Later another Al Fatah spokesman told newsmen that a second Arab had been executed for raping another American woman. He added that both women had been evacuated from Jordan.

meaningful belief" occupied his life in a manner parallel to that filled by God in more traditional religions believers.

The draft law provision interpreted by the court is the one that exempts from combat and non-combat service men who "by reason of religious training and belief . . . (are) conscientiously opposed to participation in war in any form."

Conscientious Scruple

Welsh affirmed a deep conscientious scruple against taking part in wars where people are killed. He stated he believed "the taking of life—anyone's life — to be morally wrong."

Like Daniel Andrew Seeger in the 1965 decision, Black said, the Welsh strongly believed killing graduates read aloud a statement of commitment that said: "We . . . do solemnly swear to dedicate our lives in the hopes of achieving a better world, a world in which perpetual, just peace shall reign."

The school has been the scene of periodic disruptions since February when young people burned down a bank in the nearby campus community of Isla Vista, but the ceremonies Sunday were quiet.

Equal Fervor

The justice said the government, which had asked the court to uphold Welsh's three-year sentence, conceded that his beliefs "are held with the strength of more traditional religious convictions."

Black said the 1965 decision "made it clear that these sincere and meaningful beliefs which prompt the registrant's objection to all wars need not be confined in either source or content to traditional or parochial concepts of religion."

What is necessary for a registrant to meet the "religious" exemption test of the draft law, Black said, "is that this opposition to war stem from the registrant's moral, ethical or religious beliefs about what is right and wrong and that these beliefs be held with the strength of traditional religious convictions."

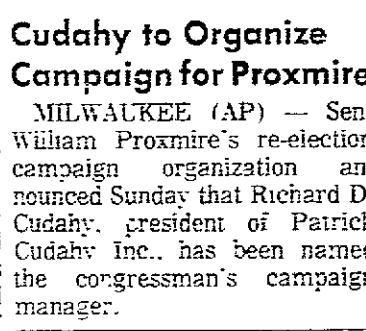

What Is Right

Supreme Reality—a God who communicates to man in some way a consciousness of what is right and should be done, of what is the source and content but which nevertheless impose upon him a duty of conscience to refrain from participating in any war at any time, those beliefs certainly occupy in the life of that individual a place parallel to that filled by God in traditionally religious persons.

"Because his beliefs function as a religion in his life, such an individual is as much entitled to a 'religious' conscientious objection exemption under section 6(J) as is someone who derives his conscientious opposition to war from traditional religious convictions."

Final Report on Apollo 13 Ready

By HOWARD BENEDICT AP Aerospace Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special review board studying the near tragic Apollo 13 lunar mission has finished its final report on the cause of the in-space explosion that endangered the lives of three astronauts and ruined man's third attempt to walk on the moon.

Review board Chairman Edgar M. Cortright prepared the findings, expected to be critical of management shortcomings, for delivery today to Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The main thrust of today's report was an evaluation of how the explosion happened, where to place any blame and how to avoid the problem in future flights.

An earlier report by Cortright pinned the oxygen tank explosion on the failure of two thermal switches he said were subjected to an electrical overload during a test at Cape Kennedy two weeks before the April 11 launch.

Tank Rupture

The 26-inch-diameter oxygen tank ruptured April 13, about 205,000 miles from earth, as astronauts James A. Lovell Jr., Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. neared the moon. The blast drained their command ship of oxygen and power and forced the astronauts to use the separate systems of their lunar module to save their lives.

The lunar ship, which was to have transported Lovell and Haise to the moon, served as the astronauts' "lifeboat" for "four harrowing days as they swept around the back of the moon and streaked back to a safe landing in the Pacific Ocean."

Suez Sites

The Egyptian government said 60 Israeli planes attacked positions along the Suez Canal in a series of raids that started Saturday night and ended Sunday at noon.

The statement said five Egyptian soldiers were wounded and one Israeli plane was hit by anti-aircraft fire.

The Tel Aviv command said a small Israeli army force attacked an Arab guerrilla base eight miles east of the Jordan River Saturday night, when tensions were still running high between guerrillas and King Hussein's army.

A Jordanian account of the raid, which was the first since Jordan since March 5, said the Israelis came in a single helicopter, blew up an isolated house, kidnapped a teacher and an old farmer, and then returned to the west bank of the river. The Israelis said they took two Arab prisoners after destroying a guerrilla base.

WACOG Studies Low-Cost Housing

Waupaca Group to Look at Area Facilities

WAUPACA — The Waupaca Area Council of Governments (WACOG) took an initial look at possible financing for homes for the elderly Thursday.

Since WACOG was formed last fall, the five-unit council, including the towns of Dayton, Farmington, Lind and Waupaca and the City of Waupaca, has organized its monthly meetings around the exploration of priority items to meet immediate needs.

Herb Rieckmann Jr., Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission community planner and coordinator, Thursday proposed that WACOG first establish the need for rural low-cost housing and obtain professional assistance in planning a program and selecting the financial assistance which

Black River Falls Swimmer Dies in Stream Near Home

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Jackson County resident drowned Sunday night, shortly before his 21st birthday.

Donald Ebert, who would have been 21 today, drowned in the Black River near his home city of Black River Falls around 10:30 Sunday night. The Jackson County sheriff's office said Ebert was with two companions when he entered the stream, fully clothed, for a swim.

The body was recovered a half hour later.

Other drowning victims reported during the weekend included:

Willie Jones, 47, of Kenosha drowned Sunday in the Fox River near the Wilmot Dam while holding a line attached to a row boat. Authorities said he was wading along the river's edge during a fishing outing, and evidently stepped into a hole.

A Chicago man, Curtis Cobbs, 37, drowned Saturday when he fell from a boat into the Wisconsin River while fishing with companions near Wisconsin Dells.

Edward D. Wagner, 71, of Waushara County died Friday in a Lake Poygan when his fishing unit with one bedroom: $120 for a unit with two bedrooms; and $140 for a unit with three or more bedrooms.

Joseph Kozak, 16, drowned Friday while swimming near his Rusk County home.

Rogers Plans Anti-Landfill Legislation

KAUKAUNA — State Rep William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, said Friday that he plans to introduce state legislation to prohibit the use of land for sanitary landfills, if such use would harm or destroy ecological and esthetic value of the land.

Rogers, who also is on the Kaukauna City Council, has been one of the leading opponents of the city's efforts to use a 70-acre wooded ravine southeast of Kaukauna in the Town of Buchanan as a landfill site.

Rogers said his legislative proposal was prompted by the controversy over city's proposal. The 2nd Dist representative admitted that his bill, which will be introduced next January when the Legislature goes back into session, will not have any effects on the Kaukauna site, but it would stop this from happening elsewhere.

Kaukauna has an option to purchase the 70-acre site and is awaiting Department of Natural Resources determination on whether the soil is suitable.

Rogers said "it seems to me that to consider the destruction of a unique natural resource for the purpose of sanitary landfill is, in my opinion, contrary to my ideas of preserving what little we have in the area of our natural environment."

The dump presently used by Kaukauna was just given a 90-day extension, to Oct. 1, for conversion to landfill. The dump owner, James Lehrer, had requested the extension on the grounds that he could not complete the conversion to landfill by the state's original July 1 deadline.

While the dump will be available for landfill purposes, Kaukauna has shied away from joining Lehrer's landfill chiefly because of the price per ton he's asking for industrial wastes.

Rogers said that he will continue to oppose the city's buying the wooded parcel for landfill purposes. There are other sites available, he contended.

He said he also was considering seeking an amendment to the open space program to provide matching funds for the purchase of landfill sites that eventually would be returned to the tax rolls.

Multi-Use Building

New London Meets School Space Need

NEW LONDON — The dilemma of finding economical, temporary study hall space for junior high students was solved by the board of education by erecting a multi-use steel building.

The building will be used as a study hall and cafeteria for about five years, while the board makes arrangements for a more permanent facility.

After the facility is put into service, the old building will be used for other programs.

The main building, which is bolted together, can be disassembled, and reassembled on a new site, where it can serve as a storage area, portable classroom, or bus garage.

Future Use
The concrete slab, which is 60 feet by 80 feet, is large enough to serve as a basketball or tennis court.

The carpeting is to be installed with double back tape, and will be removeable, and reusable.

The tunnel, which connects the new building with the main school, will be removed from that location, reassembled elsewhere and used for storage of mowers, and sports equipment.

Even the wiring in the school is designed so that it can be removed and reused.

The building will have its own heating plant, air conditioning and plumbing. It is designed as one big room, with a 10 foot by 30 foot utility room on one end.

Color Blends
Besides the entrance from the main building, there are two entrances on the south end of the addition.

The outside of the structure will be beige and white, and will blend with the adjoining building.

Supt. H. J. Ramsdell noted that the building would relieve pressure on classrooms now being used for study hall purposes.

These rooms can now be used for individual or group study programs.

The building will also serve as a cafeteria for the hot lunch program. The gymnasium is presently set up at noon as a temporary lunch room.

The structure is being assembled by the Glover Construction Company, Kingston.

Plumbing and heating are being installed by DuRite Plumbing Co. (FHA) at its recent state convention here.

The convention also voted to nominate Jane Nemke, Birnamwood for the office of national treasurer which will be elected at the national FHA convention in New York July 11-16.

The Chilton chapter was awarded a certificate for submitting an outstanding scrapbook covering publicity on chapter activities during the past year.

Mrs. Martha Mundt, Antigo FHA adviser, was presented with an honorary FHA membership in recognition of her work and services for the organization.

Karen Lentz, from the Colfax Chapter, was installed as state president June 10, along with Miss Packer and other district vice presidents. The convention program was built on the theme "Action Today for Tomorrow."

Youths Released After Beer Party
SEYMOUR — Nine area juveniles and one from the Black Creek area were released to their parents late Saturday night after questioning by Outagamie County officers in connection with a beer party on an abandoned farm about 1 1/2 miles southeast of here on State 55.

A state patrolman assisted local police and county officers during the investigation.

Officers confiscated two empty cases of beer. The group was apprehended about 11:30 p.m.

Dead in separate accidents Saturday were Ristow, Miss Thompson, and Roger Loukes, 29, of Duluth, Minn.

Scott Arentz, 3, of La Crosse, died Saturday of injuries received May 30 in La Crosse.

Mrs. Elsie L. Reynolds, 77, of Madison was killed Sunday night in the collision of her car and another at the intersection of State 73 and Dane County BB near Deerfield.

Royalton Girl to be State 4-H Delegate

ROYALTON — Victoria Zirble of the Riverview 4-H Club will be a delegate to the 50th annual state 4-H congress on the University of Wisconsin Madison campus June 15-19. About 1,000 4-H delegates from the state are expected to attend.

Home Improvements Boom Through Fox Valley Area

Outagamie County families, as well as those in the neighboring counties, are going in for home improvements in a big way these days.

They are spending more money for alterations, additions, replacement and maintenance than they ever did.

In the past year, Outagamie home owners spent an estimated $9,682,000 to spruce up their homes, based upon government data showing average outlays per housing unit in the regional area. In the other counties, the total was $14,941,000.

It represented an average expenditure locally of $289 per unit. Nationally, the average was $265.

Sample Survey
Many homeowners spent considerably more than this, of course, and others much less. Only a small proportion of them undertake major improvements in any one year.

During 1969, according to a sample survey conducted by the Department of Commerce and reports from the National Association of Home Builders, approximately $13.5 billion was spent by homeowners throughout the country to refurbish their property. This compares with $12.7 billion in the previous year.

Why the increase? The answer is that many families who have been contemplating selling, their present dwellings and moving into newer homes found that they couldn't do so.

They were held in check by the tight money conditions, which made mortgages difficult to obtain, and by the high interest rates that made for very big mortgage payments.

Next Best Thing
They decided, therefore, to do the next best thing—fix up their present places.

Their biggest expenditure, in most cases, was for alterations, additions and replacements. This accounted for 61 per cent of the total.

The other 39 per cent was for maintenance, repairs and general upkeep, including painting, plumbing, roof re-shingling, electrical work, floor sanding and the like.

To a greater extent than ever before, these jobs are being tackled by the owners themselves. This do-it-yourself trend was brought about by the high cost of labor and the scarcity of competent mechanics.

Valley Counties
As a result, much of the $24,623,000 spent in the year in the area for home improvements went to local merchants selling paint, hardware, paneling, electrical supplies and such.

Other Fox Valley counties reflected similar trends. Winnebago County, for instance, is estimated to have 34,800 housing units and Winnebago spent $10 million in home improvements.

Waupaca County's total expenditure for improvements was $2.9 million for an estimated 9,900 housing units.

In Calumet County surveys show $2 million spent to improve and repair an estimated 7,000 housing units.

Top Scout Patrol Cited in Fremont
FREMONT — The Badgers were the winning patrol in a 10-week contest of Boy Scout Troop 45.

Discharge of Nurses Aid Ruled Unfair

Appleton Memorial Hospital has been found guilty of an unfair labor practice in the firing of a nurses aid for taking a sweet roll from its cafeteria.

The hospital was ordered by the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) to reinstate Mrs. Shirley Brett to her former, or equivalent, position and to reimburse her for loss of pay back to Jan. 24, the date of her discharge.

In its ruling, the WERC held that despite a growing problem of pilferage at the hospital and posted warnings that all food taken must be paid for, the hospital did not have just cause in discharging Mrs. Brett.

The WERC found that taking of food was a "prevalent practice" among employees, including supervisory personnel, and that no disciplinary actions had been taken previously against any other employee.

The WERC concluded that while the pilfering of food was not condoned, the discharge of an employee with a previously unblemished record was not proper discipline.

The complaint against the hospital was filed in behalf of Mrs. Brett by Local 150, Service and Hospital Employees International Union.

260 Get Degrees in Lawrence Exercises

Under overcast skies and in a ceremony underscored by concern for problems at home and abroad, Lawrence University held its 121st commencement exercises Sunday.

There were 260 degrees conferred by the university—233 in the arts and 27 in music—and many of the students who received them strode across the platform in front of Youngchild Hall displaying arm bands bearing the inverted "Y" of the peace movement.

About 100 of the seniors dispersed with caps and gowns entirely, choosing to donate the $2.50 fee for the traditional attire to organizations promoting the cause of peace.

Day of Rejoicing

It was however, still a day of rejoicing for Class of '70, whose members received their degrees from President Thomas S. Smith.

Smith, who described himself as "in my freshman year" at Lawrence, wished the assembled seniors "the best of luck" and told them "our hopes for the future go with you."

George Smalley, lecturer in Russian at Lawrence and this year's principal commencement speaker, noted in his opening remarks that "this is a very tough year for commencement speakers" and declared that he found it difficult "to be optimistic and positive, or to 'talk about sweetness and light' in the face of the problems of poverty, human rights, war and pollution which face the nation today."

Of the 260 degrees conferred, 20 went to seniors who graduated magna cum laude. All were bachelor of arts degrees. There were 47 graduates who received their degrees magna cum laud—42 in the arts and five in music.

Standing Ovation

A standing ovation was provided for Carol Ann Middleton, Cedar Rapids, Iowa who graduated summa cum laude with a degree in Russian history.

Among the graduates who received their degrees magna cum laude was one Appleton student. He was Walter E. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Brown, 609 N. Lawrence, a major in mathematics.

Four of the graduates who received their degrees cum laude were from the Appleton area, two in the arts and two in music.

The music majors were Paul Emmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Emmons, 209 E. Hancock St., organ, and Nancy Jayne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Jayne, 124 Baldwin Court, flute.

Arts Graduates

The arts graduates who received their degrees cum laude were Lynne Louise Doerfler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doerfler, 1302 Oakcrest Court, French; and Dale E. Schuh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Schuh, 2403 Riverside Drive, Kaukauna.

In all, 17 member of the Lawrence Class of '70 were from the Fox Cities area.

Recognition was given at commencement to a number of Lawrence students who were the winners of prizes and first time awards announced previously.

Several other students learned with dining facilities for nearly the first time that they had 600 people and including the famed Milwaukee Downer teakwood room, was still two years away, and the Ruth DeYoung Kohler Hall for Women did not yet rise against the Lawrence skyline.

Among the awards and prizes announced at commencement were three conferred on students for work in modern languages.

The Baker Prize in Modern Languages went to Myra Lynn Krinke, St. Paul, Minn., a senior majoring in German.

Baker Award

Laurel Hacker, South Bend, Ind., a junior majoring in Slavic languages, was recipient of the Louis C. Baker Memorial Award in Modern Languages, and the Prize Scholarship in semantics was awarded to Jen Hwa, a junior from Penang, Malaysia.

Other awards have been announced by the Art Department on the basis of judging of one-man shows put on by senior art majors.

Awarded prizes from the Sheila Meier Brink Fund were John Mojonier, River Forest, Ill.; Nancy Netterstrom, Barrington, Ill., and Mary Rae, 165 River Drive, Appleton.

At a ceremony preceding the commencement exercises, eight Lawrence students and four students from the Institute of Paper Chemistry cadets in the Lawrence University AFOTC program, received their commissions in the U.S. Air Force.

World Changes

Both the Lawrence campus and the world have changed significantly since the Class of '70 began classes in the fall of 1966.

Then there were 326 freshmen at Lawrence from 26 states, the District of Columbia and three foreign countries. The 260 seniors who graduated came from 24 states, the District of Columbia and two foreign countries — England, and Hong Kong.

The campus has changed too. In the fall of 1966, the Lawrence Health Center, added as a wing to Colman Hall, opened for the

Work Starts for Ball Diamonds at Stockbridge Park

STOCKBRIDGE — Earth moving equipment was used at the Legion-Firemen Community Park last week, preparing an area for what will eventually be softball and baseball diamonds at the seven acre park.

The recreational area in the village was purchased by the civic group several years ago with funds raised at an annual picnic. Federal funds are being sought to improve the area for recreational purposes.

One acre of land has been donated for the proposed new community center building and fire department. A lunch stand and public restrooms have been constructed. Planning is being supervised by Roland Tonn, Calumet County planner.

This year's picnic is scheduled July 18-19 and will feature barbecued chicken.

Looking to the Future in Cambodia

When President Nixon explained our troop participation in the fighting in Cambodia he cited three aims; the capture of extensive supplies and equipment, the destruction of a reported main command base of Communist forces in Indochina, and the wiping out of sanctuaries of enemy troops who were supposed to be massed for an attack into South Vietnam.

The first aim was successful. The President has said nothing at all about the other two except to claim that "all our military" objectives have been met. The suspicion remains that the move was a hasty one really aimed at bolstering the new government of Lon Nol.

The overthrow of Prince Sihanouk, according to all reports, was not in any way engineered by the Central Intelligence Agency or any other wing of the United States Government. But the incident suddenly gave us the opportunity to try to clean out those sanctuaries. The new regime had not yet asked for help and even claimed invasion but probably its support of our actions had been determined in advance. We would not be vehemently opposed as we would have been had such an action taken place when Sihanouk was in command.

But the result may now be to put us once again in support of a completely undemocratic regime as we have been in Vietnam for years. The Communists obviously do not intend to bring democracy as we understand it to any place they hold control but our insistence that we are merely hoping to make it possible for a free choice to the people of Vietnam — and now to those in Laos and Cambodia — is ridiculous.

Did the military advisors in Vietnam really believe there were extensive numbers of Communist troops all ready for a large scale attack? Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird is quoted as saying they were there but they were heading in the other direction, presumably to Phnompenh, so we can begin to wonder once more about the efficiency of our intelligence reports.

Secretary of State William Rogers has firmly said that we are not pledged to uphold any particular regime. But currently the Department of State has not seemed to be consulted about our foreign policies, at least in Asia. Mr. Rogers told a Senate committee only three days before our move into Cambodia that no such thing was contemplated. He was not included among the military leaders President Nixon told about the plans two days before the move. Nor did any member of the State Department take part in the military briefings of the President prior to his recent televised address on what he called the success of our mission.

Will a move into Cambodia by Prince Sihanouk and Cambodian supporters be now regarded as "aggression?"

Pusey on Student Dissent

We didn't agree completely with Dr. Nathan Pusey's evaluation of the so-called McCarthy era in the 1950's and we don't completely agree with his most recent statement on student dissenters.

Senator Joseph McCarthy quite blatantly used the fear of communism as a stepping stone to notoriety. But it was also the panic among his critics that made him a household word and there may have been as much "polarization" during his years in the Senate as there is in the country today. Both sides became unreasonable.

Now Dr. Pusey has labeled campus unrest as the work of "extremist groups of the New Left made up of students and — I am sorry to acknowledge — also of some faculty who for reasons not quite clear to me would like to see our colleges and universities denigrated, maligned and even shut down." He is quite right when he points to some of the student charges and demonstrations using the tactic of the Big Lie "that the university is a hopelessly bigoted, reactionary force in our society which serves the interest of a hideous military-industrial complex." But this isn't the whole story.

There are student leaders who would burn down but really have no idea of what or how they would rebuild. There are many who overemphasize the ties of universities to government research projects and the subsequent contributions to waging the war. There are probably many who join the dissenters just because it seems the thing to do at this time in our history.

But some university administrations have been as unresponsive to charges of being over-computerized, impersonal and ivory-towerish as have some government officials to dissent on a number of issues throughout the land. We do not know what the situation has been at Harvard. But there are universities which appear to be too big to offer any real communication among administrators, faculty and students, where courses of study become so structured that they do at least seem to be irrelevant, when the money from Washington is considered reason enough for experiments that may lead to killing in the war. There are problems on the campuses of the nation and they are varied but widespread and they did not simply come to light because a Weatherman faction of the Students for a Democratic Society started throwing stones.

Senator McCarthy made wild and irresponsible charges but to call him "diabolically evil" is nonsense. So too is trying to pin all the campus woes upon extremists.

President Pusey was one of the leading and concerned educators in the nation who went to Washington to encourage a toning down of inflammatory rhetoric about dissent. But his own speech seems to be a sign that he is himself once more polarized and that he is not following his own advice.

Lady Premier Wins in Ceylon

The surprise victory at the polls of the Freedom Party of Madame Sirimavo Bandaranaike in Ceylon points up the importance of local issues.

Madame Bandaranaike became the world's first woman Prime Minister in 1960. But at the time it couldn't be decided whether her party had won because of her husband's assassination and the pity her countrymen felt for her or because of her rather far left ideas. Under her control the government nationalized life insurance companies, took over both private and public schools and cooperated with two even further left parties, the small Russian influenced (rather than Chinese) Communist party and a Trotskyite group. But in 1965 national elections defeated Madame Bandaranaike's coalition and turned to the conservative regime of Dudley Senanayake who expected to win easily this time.

The issues were really about the emphasis upon national identity. Madame Bandaranaike has pledged to remove Ceylon from the British Commonwealth of nations and make it an independent republic. She also promises to take over foreign banks, the lucrative rubber, coconut and tea plantations still largely managed by the British. Such a program had obvious appeal, and perhaps especially to young people. For the first time those over 18 were eligible to vote in Ceylon and apparently generally supported Madame Bandaranaike.

Ceylon's economy has been reasonably healthy since the end of World War II. Probably the biggest problem in the leftist oriented regime, as it was before, is the red tape and confusion of bureaucracy. But the majority of voters have shown their willingness to risk this rather than to continue in a neocolonial pattern of British influence, if not control.

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 25, 1870.
Miss Burrough's select school in the Central School-House was opened on Monday last with 31 scholars in attendance.

School is taught in the forenoon, doubtless in consequence of the warm summer months, which an entire day at school would be rather trying to the children. It may be the teacher can impart as much instruction during one-half day that some teachers would require a whole day.

This progress, however, may depend upon how much time she can devote to each of her classes.

Columnist Runs Into Fatuous American Officer in Cambodia

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

PHNOM PENH — A stock figure in the recurrent drama of Washington's commitments to uncourties with no bearing on anybody's national security is the fatuous American military man who keeps sighting victory until the eve of disaster. And one reason to be pessimistic about chances of avoiding American entanglement here in Cambodia is that just such a character is already on the spot.

Colonel P., as I shall call him, is a creature of comedy and maybe pathos, chiefly distinguished by the wearing of a white bartender's jacket. I write about him because he has acquired importance in Cambodia as the American eyes and ears in what is the front line of the Vietnam war. What follows is an account of a background interview he gave the other day to this columnist, Robert Kaiser of the Washington Post, and Robert Shaplen of the New Yorker magazine.

Colonel P. began on a note of high confidence regarding the ability of Cambodian forces to resist the Vietnamese Communists: "I sincerely believe these people have the capacity to pull out of danger by themselves without anybody helping them. I'd say they have a good 50-50 chance. With help from the outside, the chances will naturally go up."

Help on Way

Colonel P. then pointed out that in fact help was coming from South Vietnam and Thailand. "I hear there is even help from Laos," he said. He felt that what was shaping up was the application of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization which includes Alice Fox, that year's Miss Wisconsin, crowned the winner chosen from eight contestants.

Last minute plans for a pancake supper at Grace Lutheran Church, Winchester, were made by committee members Mrs. Palmer Christianson, Mrs. John Kromm, Mrs. Dan Howman and Mrs. Donald Johnson. The supper was being held to raise funds to send church Boy Scout Troop members to the 30th anniversary jubilee in Colorado.

the United States. "SEATO," he said, "has never been tested before."

It was pointed out that former Secretary of State Dean Rusk had repeatedly argued that Vietnam was a test of SEATO. Colonel P., confusing Mr. Rusk with former White House aide Walt Rostow, said:

"Since this is a background, I'm not afraid to challenge even so dedicated and brilliant a man as Mr.

Kraft

Rostow. I've been all over this area since the time frame 1960-1961 — Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, Hongkong, Japan. I'm in regular contact with the Cambodian equivalent of our chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. I've just talked to him. You might say that I see things through the eyes of Gen. Lon Nol (the Cambodian prime minister). I sincerely believe that what diplomacy failed to do in the past will be accomplished by the urgency of the situation."

At that point, Colonel P. paused, and then, as if struck by a revelation, resumed: "Now here's a line for you. What we're seeing here is a reverse domino theory. People are standing up to be counted — the Vietnamese, the Thais, the Cambodians. The enemy is on the run. He's running for his life. Let me speak not as a colonel but as a man in the street, as Mr. U. S. A. I think that what President Nixon did was a brave decision. If there was anything wrong, it's that he waited as long as he did. Even so the enemy is hurt. The enemy is taking a licking. I'll bet my professional reputation that we'll bring it off."

Colonel P. was asked about reports that the town of Set Bo, only ten miles south of Phnom Penh, had been taken by the Communists. He said:

"All right. So they take it. So what can they do? The enemy can wander all over Cambodia and it won't do him any good. He doesn't have enough weapons and he doesn't have enough food. He's going for the population centers where the government has stored food and weapons. He's scored one or two successes. But I'm not about to give aid and comfort to the enemy by telling you what they are. I will say that when the rainy season comes he'll be out in the boondocks getting wet. If the government holds through the rainy season, he'll be through. He'll be dead."

Instead of the area close to Phnom Penh, Colonel P. said, we should look at the northeast quadrant of Cambodia, particularly around the town of Labansiek in the province of Rattanakiri. "I've been there myself," he said. The local commander was a fine officer of the old school. "He believes deeds speak louder than words."

It was pointed out that American headquarters in Saigon felt the enemy held the northeast quadrant in force as part of a line of communications stretching south from Laos. Colonel P. said: "I have to grin when you say that. Saigon still thinks in terms of a classic military operation. They don't understand this war." (That night, we learned next day, the Communists attacked Labansiek from 1:30 to 5:30 in the morning.)

It was pointed out that there were nine Cambodian battalions in the town of Kampong Cham which were refusing to fight enemy troops just across the river. Colonel P. said:

"You have to understand that there's a difference between troops attached to the national government and troops attached to specific regions. Those troops there feel they're honorary citizens. They feel they belong. We used to have that in the United States. In World War I, there was the Fighting 69th. It came from New York. Now we've changed that and we don't have units from a single region."

It was pointed out that the Fighting 69th was not afraid to

Wisconsin Report

Democratic Platform No Longer Calls for Repeal of Sales Tax

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — If there is some confusion among stay-at-home Democrats and observant Republicans and others about precisely what the Democratic state convention recently said about state finance and taxation, there is a reason.

Democratic conventions typically receive from delegates and their committees policy statements in huge bales, typically debate them at great length, and amend them profusely. As the hours wear on, attendance is eroded and it is sometimes possible for a stubborn minority that remains on the floor to negate what might have been approved by a majority.

Thus it is highly probable that the secretary at party headquarters will have some difficulty in putting together the formal record of proceedings at the recent Green Bay convention.

Conflict of Meaning

For the outsider, the voter who may be interested in such proceedings, there is also the problem of distinguishing between a "resolution" and a plank in the "platform." Sometimes they are in conflict, as the inconsistent dispatches in some of the newspapers indicated.

For example, the "platform," which was put together in preliminary form by a pre-convention committee consisting mostly of party elders and officeholders with more knowledge about government and the issues than the typical delegate, was adopted with several amendments, including one proposing to modify to some degree the state sales tax by adding to the list of exemp-

But a "resolution" approved by a smaller convention on the succeeding day declared outright opposition to the sales tax, which if not an outright promise to repeal it with a Democratic take-over at Madison, surely implies such action in the minds of any casual reader.

The difference, it may be supposed, is that the "platform" is a more formal and serious effort that will be published and distributed in considerable quantity. A resolution is merely the idea of one person who had it introduced and won approval in a voice vote that may or may not have been representative of the views of the party as a whole.

As noted here earlier, the platform writers and the convention itself showed considerable restraint in resisting the temptation to pledge the repeal of the sales tax, doubtless under the influence of some of the candidates who feel they have a chance to win and don't want to be held to a promise, even by implication, they know they won't be able to uphold.

Such realism prompted by optimism about election chances may also have accounted for the statement, although in the ambiguous form of a resolution, that the Democrats favor raising the corporation income tax rates and raising the top bracket level of personal income taxation before any new levies are enacted upon middle and low income earners.

Faces Tax Problem

That was a neatly phrased declaration. It doubtless reflected the fact that several experienced legislators had a hand in rewriting it in sub-committee. On the one hand, it faces up to the probability that new taxation at Madison will be required, regardless of the outcome of the elections. On the other, it appeals to the classical "soak the rich" prejudice of the liberal activists.

Taxpayers earning $15,000 and over account for only 15 per cent of the taxable income within the state. A one per cent rise in the corporate income tax, as the statement suggests, would produce a bagatelle, in current expenditure terms, and against the prospective revenue needs of a Democratic state administration.

What the party convention said in essence is that it cannot promise to repeal any taxes, including the "distasteful" sales tax, but that it will modify it slightly, and if more money is needed, it will levy first upon business and the two per cent of the income taxpayers who earn more than $15,000 a year net.

Strictly Personal

People Ill-Prepared For Boost Into Space

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In the Spring issue of that enlightening quarterly, "Horizon," Alvin Toffler develops the theme of "future shock," a term he coined in an earlier article five years ago, when he predicted some of the things that would be happening today.

Toffler points out that "when we hurl a man into outer space, we surround him with an exquisitely designed micro-environment... within liveable limits." But the average man has no less been hurled into the future, and "we take few pains to protect him from the shock of change."

What is happening to us is almost as stark "as though NASA had shot Armstrong naked into the cosmos." For the "future shock" Toffler sees us suffering from is a "breakdown of rational response... when people are overwhelmed by demands for rapid adaptation."

Five years ago, noting the swift acceleration of change in the high-technology nations, he warned that "the malaise, mass neurosis, irrationality, and free-floating violence already apparent in contemporary life" might be no more than a foretaste of tomorrow unless we came to understand — and prevent — future shock.

The human organism, both physically and psychologically, needs to be prepared for a high rate of change, just as the astronauts need to be prepared to carry their "bio-system" with them into the lunar environment. If we move too swiftly from one state to another, we become irritable, depressed, apathetic, aggressive, or actually ill.

Toffler reaffirms his warning that "we are creating an environment so filled with astonishments, twists, reversals, eruptions, mind-gangling crises, and innovations as to test the limits of man's adaptive capacities. We are setting the stage for future shock on a vast scale."

It is possible, indeed, that we are racing toward the most devastating outbreak of mass hysteria in history, overstimulated like so many rats in an experimental cage, where a multiplicity of buttons brings forth a new and unexpected result with each pressing. This is the way insanity is provoked.

Our new concern with the physical environment of man should not blind us to the perilous ways we are tampering with our limited adaptive capacities of mind and emotions.

Better Beware of Some Bulk Meat Bargains

BY SYLVIA PORTER
A short while ago, an inspector for the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce visited a bulk meat retail plant in northern Virginia which had advertised a side of beef at 35 cents a pound. On making a test purchase, the inspector who didn't identify himself as a VDAC agent) was told that the 35 cents beef was old, tough and wouldn't be satisfactory for general cooking. He was also advised that the cutting and wrapping loss on the meat would be high, as much as 70 per cent of the gross weight.

He was then guided to a more expensive meat — USDA Choice — and told that this $1.39 a pound beef would be much better and the cutting loss would be less than 20 per cent.

After indicating that he would take a quantity of the $1.39 a pound meat, the inspector began bargaining with the meat dealers. He finally bought 188 pounds of Choice beef at the reduced price of $1.06 a pound.

Back at the VDAC laboratory in Richmond, the inspector weighed the beef and found he had received a little over 120 pounds — a 36 per cent cutting loss against the less than 20 per cent guarantee.

Thus, the 120 pounds of meat was actually costing $1.71 per pound, much more than the original $1.06 for the hanging, uncut beef, and on top of this, 51 of the 120 pounds delivered at $1.71 per pound represented hamburger.

Following my recent column telling you how to compare bulk beef prices with advertised specials in your local supermarket to make sure you were really saving by beef in bulk, I received a letter from Roy L. Farmer, director of Consumer Affairs for the Commonwealth of Virginia. In it, he told me about a test purchase of bulk beef made by the Virginia Agriculture Dept. on which $71.82 could have been saved on the same quantities of the same grade and cuts at a simultaneous local supermarket sale. The bulk dealer was charged and convicted of "advertising without intent to sell" and "delivering less than the quantity represented," was fined $1,000 and costs on each count.

Beware of Bargains
In meat, the dangers are very real that you'll be caught in a "bait and switch" racket — meaning the gyp under which a merchant advertises or offers for sale a product at one price, and then tries to get you to buy another product, usually more expensive, when you come to his place of business. Mr. Farmer urges you always to beware of dealers who offer meat at bargain prices below those of reputable retail stores in your area and suggests I pass on to you these major guides:

- (1) Before you consider buying from a bulk meat dealer, check his reputation carefully.
- (2) Don't permit the meat dealer to use high pressure sales tactics on you. Give yourself plenty of time to think and to figure out what you are getting for your money.

(3) Find out whether the meat has been graded and what grade it is. If it is graded Utility or Good, it is likely to be tough and stringy and the net yield after cutting also may be low. Meats sold in most supermarkets are usually USDA Choice or above.

(4) Consider the trimming losses when you buy bulk weight meat. Have the dealer tell you how much loss there will be in cutting and what net amount of meat you will receive. Then you can calculate exactly what you will be paying per pound for the meat.

(5) Know what cuts of meat — and how much — you will get in your delivered package. It is ridiculous for you to pay for a lot of stew meat or ground beef, is old and tenacious. It is when you want steak primarily, particularly widespread in products and services connected with the home, particularly gyped, complain and complain loudly to the dealer. If you still are not satisfied, do not hesitate to complain to local or state authorities.

The "bait and switch" racket warnings well

Humphrey Confirms Intentions to Run for Minnesota Senatorship

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey is off and running for the U.S. Senate, saying he has "no intention" of seeking the presidency in 1972. day, then met with newsmen over barbecued chicken and strawberry shortcake at his Lake Waverly home Sunday.

Humphrey said he has "no intention of seeking the presidency" in 1972. However, he added, "I would be less than candid if I tried to pretend that I would turn away from the nomination if it came my way."

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.

Judge a Mercedes-Benz over miles of twisting back roads.

Not "once around the block in light traffic."

We build our automobiles to perform under stress. To take on roads that have potholes for pavement and elbows for curves.

The kind of roads that can be found in Germany's Black Forest where we test our cars.

But you can probably find a road like that near you. And that's where you should head if you really want to find out what a Mercedes-Benz is all about.

Independent suspension

You'll find our fully independent racing-type suspension lets you finesse your way through those tricky bends and switchbacks.

Not plow through them.

Our rear axle is articulated. It flexes so each rear wheel can move up and down independently of the other — just as the front wheels do. Soaks up the bumps and dampens the bouncing.

Taut steering

Our optional power steering is very polite. It lets you drive. It doesn't drive you. It's taut and responsive, without the usual inch or two of sloppy play. You can feel the wheels tracking, even at high speeds.

Yet, when you're trying to squeeze into a tight parking spot, you can spin the wheel around, lock-to-lock, in three turns effortlessly.

Our engineers call this "progressive assistance." The more power you need in the steering, the more you get. But we don't overdo it. You'll never get the feeling that you're twirling a telephone dial instead of steering a car.

Four disc brakes

The brakes are built to give you a controlled, straight stop instead of that other kind. Even when you stop short from high speed (a nice way to say "panic stop").

We put four massive disc brakes on every Mercedes-Benz. Standard equipment. No options. Only one American car provides four disc brakes as standard — and that's a two passenger model, not a full-sized sedan.

Engine: fragile as a rock

Our overhead cam engine can cruise at RPM levels that leave competitors floating their valves in disbelief.

Bearings are delicately machined to within 4/10,000ths of an inch. Pistons and connecting rods are painstakingly matched and balanced.

And each engine is bench-tested for at least 60 minutes.

Car & Driver claims that a Mercedes-Benz "will whistle across country at average speeds simply beyond the realm of comprehension for the average American driver."

Which doesn't surprise us at all. We don't build cars for the "average" American driver.

Ask your dealer for a test drive. Judge for yourself.

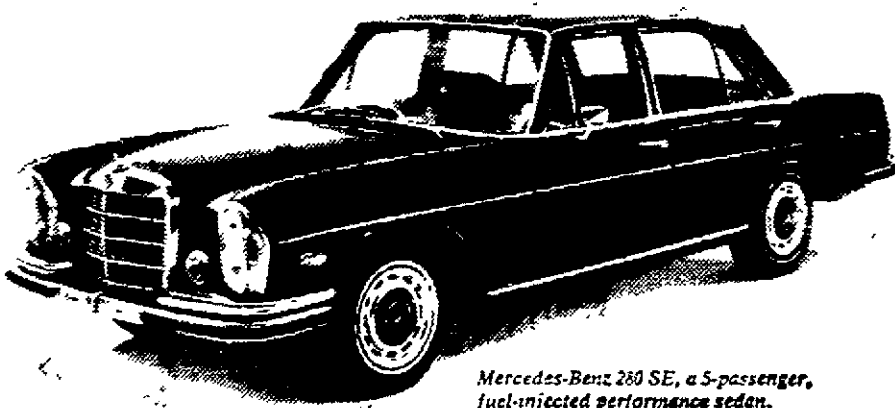

New brochures

You can get a brochure that will give you more details about Mercedes-Benz automobiles. Just send in this coupon.

If you're planning a European trip, check the box to see how much you can save with our overseas delivery plan.

But the best thing you can do is visit one of our showrooms. Our representative will be glad to tell you about any of our sixteen models.

And be sure to take that test drive.

Six Doctoral Degrees Awarded

22 Receive Advanced Degrees From IPC

Advanced degrees were awarded to 22 students of the Institute of Paper Chemistry at the Lawrence University graduation exercises Sunday. Six were awarded the doctorate in philosophy degree and sixteen in science degree. All six of the doctoral degree recipients are graduates of the Institute of Paper Chemistry. The six doctoral degrees represent almost 15 years of successful scientific research contributing to the body of scientific and technical knowledge basic to the pulp and paper industry. Research completed by each of the graduates is as follows: "Methanolysis of Myrtenyl Chloride," Bruce H. Barrett; "A Comparison of Adsorptive Potential Energies for Argon and Nitrogen Adsorption on the Surface of Cellulose Fibers," Wayne H. Dietrich; "Distribution of Energy Consumption During Straining of Paper," Karl I. Ebeling; "Ethanolyses of 3,4,6-Tri-O-Methyl-1,2-O-(Alkyl Orthoacetyl)-A-1,4-D-Glucopyranosides," David P. Hultman; "An Investigation of Fiber Consistency Distributions in Turbulent Tube Flow," Harry T. Sanders, Jr.; "The Coagulation of Cellulose Pulp Fibers and Fines as a Mechanism of Retention," John C. Walkush.

Ebeling Wins Steele Award

Kari I. Ebeling is the 1970 recipient of the Westbrook Steele Gold Medal Award of the Institute of Paper Chemistry. The Award is made annually to a Ph. D. graduate of the Institute for "outstanding excellence" of doctoral thesis. A thesis is the statement and interpretation of the scientific research conducted by doctoral candidates as part of the requirements for the doctor of philosophy degree. Ebeling's research was on "Distribution of Energy Consumption During Straining of Paper."

Ebeling is a native of Finland. He graduated from the Finland Institute of Technology in Helsinki in 1963 and came to the Institute of Paper Chemistry under the sponsorship of the Finnish Paper Engineers Association in 1965 as a special student for a year's study. In 1966 he was admitted to the Institute as a regular student. He received a master of science degree from the Institute in 1967 and entered the program of doctoral studies. Ebeling, his wife and their two children will return to Finland.

28 Graduates Have Alumni in Family

Among the approximately 250 graduates of Lawrence University Sunday were 28 students with mothers, fathers or other relatives on the alumni rolls of 47, and Peggy Souha, 45, Lawrence University, Milwaukee. Souha, who graduated from the University of Wisconsin, has a second cousin who is a graduate of the Institute of Paper Chemistry. Some of the graduates have rather illustrious alumni pedigrees, such as Sarah Kreuger, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Kreuger, 47, and mother, the former Dorothy Hooley, 44, Allyn's mother, the former Betty White, graduated from Lawrence in 1940. Sarah and Allyn are second cousins who with hardly any trouble at all can trace between them 24 relatives who are Lawrence alumni.

Miss Marilyn Hobart Kinsey, the first woman to receive a degree from the Institute of Paper Chemistry, chats with Kari Into Ebeling, this year's winner of the Westbrook Steele Medal, during graduation activity Sunday. The Steele Medal is awarded to a Ph.D. candidate at the Institute on the basis of excellence of thesis. Miss Kinsey received a master of science degree.

First Woman Gets Institute Degree

Marilyn Kinsey became the first woman Sunday to receive a degree from the Institute of Paper Chemistry. She received one of 16 master of science degrees conferred in the Institute's 1970 graduation exercises held jointly with Lawrence University. Miss Kinsey is the only one of three women admitted as students to the Institute, all in recent years, who continued her studies to the degree level. Admittance to the Institute came following her graduation from the University of Manchester in England where she received the B. Sc. degree with honors. She majored there in paper technology. Miss Kinsey began her college studies in the field of civil engineering. She changed to the field of paper science because she felt that bias against women would be less of a factor in the pulp and paper industry. She attended the University of Connecticut School of Engineering before going to Manchester University. She is a native of Augusta, Maine, has traveled extensively abroad, and worked in laboratories of paper mills in the United States, Canada and Germany.

Lawrence Cites Alumni Trio

Three alumni were honored by Lawrence University during commencement Sunday. Awarded the Lawrence Alumni Association's Distinguished Service medallions were Marcus L. Plant, professor of law at the University of Michigan and former president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), and Russell G. Wichmann, professor of music and chairman of the music department at Chatham College, formerly Pennsylvania College for Women, Pittsburgh, Penn. Dr. Ethel M. Barber, teacher, lecturer, philanthropist and longtime leader in American Association of University Women (AAUW) activities, received the silver bowl awarded to the Downer Alumna of the Year. B.A. in 1932. Plant received his bachelor of arts degree in economics from Lawrence in 1932 and his master's degree in the same field two years later. He was awarded his law degree from the University of Michigan in 1938. Wichmann graduated from Appleton High School before attending Lawrence University, where he obtained a bachelor of music degree in 1934. Mrs. Barber, who lives in Wilmette, Ill., graduated from Milwaukee Downer College with a bachelor of arts degree in 1934. She taught speech at Downer, and later obtained her Ph.D. in speech from Northwestern University.

Alumni Rolls Grow
Just last April, the Kreuger-Jones alumni rolls were increased by one as Sarah became the bride of Eric Denemark, who graduated from Lawrence in June, 1969. Other seniors whose mothers and fathers are both graduates of Lawrence are: Bruce Hauptli, son of Robert Hauptli, 39, and Janet Worthing, 40, Palo Alto, Calif.; Denise Dyer, daughter of John Dyer, 46, and Jewel Verhulst, 46, 446 Hazel St., Oshkosh; Peter Saving, son of John, 44, Brockman, route 2, Neenah, is the son of the late Dr. Norman H. Meyer, a 1947 graduate of Lawrence.

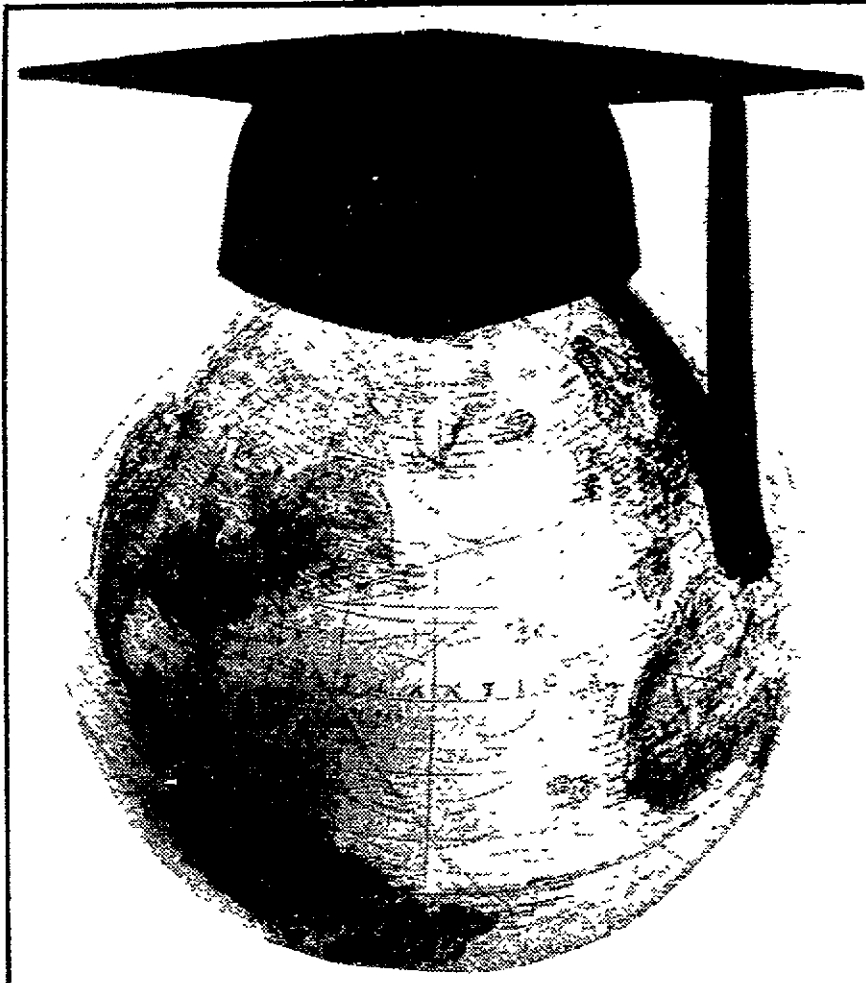

Alumni Fathers
Girls with fathers who are alumni of Lawrence are Jacquiline Ozzanne, whose father is Dr. Bryce Ozzanne, Moline, Ill., 29; and Sarah Swanson, Stevens Point, whose father, Russell, was in the class of '34. Carolyn Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Martin, has a father who received his advanced degree from the Institute of Paper Chemistry in 1948. William A. Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. AMERICA IS TURNING OUT EDUCATION... on a scale unimaginable just a few decades ago! And, this knowledge explosion is putting pressures on youth that are unbelievably complex. Tomorrow's leaders are in the classroom today, so starting early to develop an awareness of the news gives young people a better understanding of the world about them. That is why we sponsor a News Filmstrip series sent weekly to a selected list of local schools. Through this educational program, the day's news becomes alive and exciting! Interests are broadened! Young people are motivated to satisfy an awakened curiosity and develop the newspaper reading habit! The role of a newspaper in the life of an emerging citizen is a most important one. It is our responsibility to help young people develop an awareness of social and political issues unknown in previous generations. Ingrown Hair on Face Has Several Causes

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a male, aged 27, and have a lot of ingrown hairs on my face. What causes this? What may I do to try to stop it? — H L C

There are two main causes of ingrown hairs. First, we think of hairs growing directly outward from the follicle, or root, but actually they don't always grow straight out. They sometimes grow at an angle, sometimes an acute angle.

Thus as the hair grows, instead of penetrating out to the surface of the skin, it pushes more or less sideways, staying below the surface. Then you have an ingrown hair. It may curl up in a ball. But it also can burrow along under the skin at the quite some distance — in rare skin at the outer of the follicle.

cases a hair has been known to tunnel along for more than an inch.

This "burrowing" hair can act like a sliver or other foreign body and be decidedly uncomfortable.

Another factor is a skin condition, here a osis pilaris, where you have this trouble, try to children, I realize that our 11-year-old is hyperkinetic. Can a Changing razors may help — from a safety razor to an electric or even a straight razor, or the other way around.

In troublesome areas, the best you shave, some will be cut off but may be electrolysis — have an angle, leaving the tip of the hair quite sharp, and then it can burrow or become ingrown.

What to do about it? A number of things.

Before starting to shave, spend a minute or two softening the whiskers with hot water, necessary to see a dermatologist.

I wouldn't have any idea where your friends got their "information," or what purpose they would have in trying to interfere with your doctor's instructions which are entirely reasonable. Keep on doing as he says. (Digitalis is usually given once a day to maintain its effect.)

Postal Reforms Expected to Pass After Some Spats

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the most sweeping plans to overhaul the American mail service since Benjamin Franklin set it up in 1753 still appears headed for victory in the House but not without some hardnosed floor opposition.

The assumption that the postal reform bill, including an 8 per cent pay raise for mail workers, will pass the House when it comes up for a midweek vote has been so widespread that neither party bothered to take a headcount on the issue.

But during committee hearings last week the bill ran into heavy fire over compulsory union membership, retroactive pay and Congress' impending loss of 161 years of control of the Post Office—including patronage.

Those issues—particularly compulsory union membership—remain alive and opponents are prepared to fight over them during debate.

Other Blocks
Not all the potential roadblocks will be in Congress.

The National Letter Carriers union, which played a major part in the nation's only mail strike earlier this year, has raised the threat of a walkout this weekend if the House kills the bill. And Postmaster Gen. Winton M. Blount says he may recommend a veto if the bill carries with the costly retroactive pay feature intact.

The timing of the pay boost is a major difference between the House version and a bill approved by the Senate Post Office Committee. As sent to the House floor the 8 per cent pay increase will be retroactive to April 16; the Senate measure calls for it to take effect upon passage.

The cost of the pay raise just for the fiscal year starting July 1 has been estimated at $538 million, and that on top of a previous 6 per cent boost for all government workers including mail employees.

The only House count estimate around, an informal survey taken last week by a Republican staff aide, showed 193 firm votes for the bill. That should be enough to indicate approval but it is short of the 216 votes needed to guarantee passage in the 430-member House.

The big fight over compulsory union membership—always a volatile issue in Congress—stems from opponents' claims that it will break down government control over its workers and lead to constant strikes.

But backers note the bill prohibits strikes and say it only gives postal unions the same right as those in private industry to negotiate contracts requiring employees join unions within 30 days.

Same Exemptions
The 19 states that prohibit compulsory union membership are exempted by the bill.

The reform bill, a compromise of President Nixon's original postal corporation plan, would give the mail system its first basic face lifting since 1789 when Congress took control of postal rates, wages and policy.

The bill would take control of the mails away from Congress and turn it over to an independent U.S. Postal Service with corporate powers, and with orders to put the service on a self-paying basis by 1978.

Under the House bill, the service is to set postal rates necessary to meet operation costs, subject to congressional veto, and would be authorized to borrow up to $10 billion for modernization and construction.

The service would be run by a postmaster general and an 11-man board. Nine members would be appointed by the President and they would name the postmaster general and his deputy, both of whom would be board members.

The government, like most other Japanese employers, pays two such bonuses a year, the other one in the winter.

Hatcher Criticizes Administration

Two-Pronged Rights Policy Pictured

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Nixon administration is pursuing "a policy of calculated disregard of protest on the one hand, and a careful characterization of it as un-American on the other," Mayor Richard G. Hatcher of Gary, Ind., said Sunday.

"Recent shootings of Black Panthers, the trial of the Chicago Seven, and other events have shown us that the machinery necessary to repress dissent is fully developed in this country, and the administration is not afraid to use it," he said.

Hatcher, the second Negro elected mayor of a major U.S.

city, was among speakers at a program in honor of the Rev. Jack H. Johnson, founder of a Milwaukee day care center designed to help welfare recipients get jobs.

Hatcher said Vice President Spiro Agnew's manner of censoring dissent has made him "one of the most dangerous men in America today."

Bill of Rights

"We should no longer take it for granted that the rights guaranteed in our Bill of Rights will continue to exist," Hatcher said.

The mayor said the Federal Housing Administration is not providing enough help to the city, was among speakers at a program in honor of the Rev. Jack H. Johnson, founder of a Milwaukee day care center designed to help welfare recipients get jobs.

"The FHA has made it possible for the white middle class to move to suburbs and leave the struggling blacks in the central city," he said.

He described subsidies for agriculture, airlines and other businesses as forms of high-class welfare.

"The people who receive this money look down their noses at those on welfare," Hatcher said.

"They make jokes about welfare recipients buying Cadillacs and color television sets."

New Ceylon Government Emphasizes Communist Tie

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Israel until it withdraws from the three largest donors to territories occupied during the 1967 Middle East war. An Israeli spokesman said the woman prime minister said she will recognize East Germany, North Korea, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government suspend relations with Israel and nationalize all foreign and domestic banks.

Announcing a program for her government that could imperil the large amounts of aid Ceylon gets from Western nations, the woman prime minister said she will recognize East Germany, North Korea, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government suspend relations with Israel and nationalize all foreign and domestic banks.

All these moves were campaign promises of Mrs. Bandaranaike's Freedom party, which won a landslide victory two weeks ago in electoral alliance with Ceylon's two small Communist parties.

Her government's policy statement, read to a cheering crowd of 100,000 Ceylonese by Gov. Gen. William Gopawalla in Independence Square, affirmed that a major goal would be to "put an end to policies of economic dependence and neocolonialism."

The statement announced that the government would handle the import of all essential commodities and control the predominantly British agencies that manage the nation's major tea, rubber and coconut plantations.

"Imperialist Agencies"
Mrs. Bandaranaike also asked parliament to write a new constitution creating a socialist republic and ending the country's 22-year-old dominion status under which the Ceylonese owe allegiance to the British monarch.

Mrs. Bandaranaike said "all subversive imperialist agencies that operate in Ceylon will be wound up." She did not name specific agencies, but local newspapers said she was referring to the U.S. Peace Corps, the Asia Foundation and a local foundation financed by West Germany's Frederick Ebert Foundation.

No timetable was given for carrying out the program, but Mrs. Bandaranaike said she hoped to accomplish it during her five-year term. Since she has a majority of more than 75 votes in parliament, she should said.

Mrs. Bandaranaike said relations would be suspended with the United States and on the

Skilled Whites Hit Hard by Joblessness

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Coast: the unemployment also has been concentrated in aerospace, automobile and weapons industries have been hardest hit by the nation's sharp rise in unemployment, the Labor Department says.

A report released Sunday by the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said blacks have suffered relatively less unemployment because there were fewer of them working in those industries in the first place.

It said the situation suggested that cutbacks in the defense and aerospace fields have been the primary causes of unemployment. The housing slump and lagging auto sales also added to joblessness.

So far this year the number of persons out of work has risen in the nation from 2.8 million to 4.1 million. Five per cent of the civilian work force is jobless.

Percentage of Decline
The report said employment in the past 10 months has dropped 21.1 per cent in weapons, 9.1 in aircraft and 13.2 in automobile manufacturing.

"One of the surprising facts about the recent rise in unemployment has been the extent to which it has affected workers in high skill jobs," the report said.

"The jobless rate for the professional and technical group has now returned to a level last attained—and then for only a very brief period—in 1963," it said. The rate was slightly more than 2 per cent.

Blue-collar unemployment rose from 4.3 per cent in December to 6.2 per cent in May, with the steepest increase in the skilled categories, the report said.

It also noted that since the affected industries are concentrated in the Midwest and on the
